ALL THE DEMANDS OF THE ALLIES NOT YET CONCEDED BY GREECE

Hellenic Government May Ask for Discussion With Allied Military Experts.

NO UNION OF SERBIANS

Bulgarian Operations Around Monastir Apparently Have Frustrated Hopes.

French at Least Holding Own in Southern Sector.

London, Nov. 27.—London's cheerful view of the Greek situation has been succeeded by something in the nature of a reaction and the prevailing opinion at the present time is that the press and public jumped too quickly to the agreeable conclusion that Greece would concede readily all the allied demands.

Although all the forecasts and speculation regarding Greece's reply to the Entente ministers' new note, embodying the detailed demands of their governments, that Greece guarantee security and liberty of action to the French-British troops on Greek soil continue to be optimistic, the last information from Athens clearly indicates that Greece has not yet definitely abandoned the dilatory tactics which caused the Allies such uneasiness.

It is now reported from Athens that the Greek government probably will propose that military experts representing the Entente Powers shall be appointed to discuss with the Greek general staff, the demands which it has heretofore been assumed were already satisfactorily answered.

The Bulgarian operations in the neighborhood of Monastir apparently have frustrated the hopes of a union of Serbians and attracted troops in southern Serbia, hence the use of the railroads in Greek territory to effect such a union has become of the utmost importance.

The Germans officially announce progress beyond Pristina and Mitrovitza, and central Serbia apparently is almost cleared of Serbian troops. But in the southern sector, in the neighborhood of Krivolak, the French are at least holding their own, if they have not gained a slight advantage in the series of attacks and counter-attacks which have given the fighting here the character of an almost continuous battle for several days.

Notwithstanding the persistence of the Bulgarian advance, the Serbians continue their strong defensive south and west of Prilep and, according to a late confirmed Athens dispatch they have re-taken Krushevo.

Russia is now said to have 350,000 troops near the Rumanian frontier, in preparation for an attack on Bulgaria by land or sea, but this has not precipitated any definite declaration of Rumania's intentions.

SEND ANOTHER NOTE

Allies Outline Other Measures They Desire Greece to Take.

Athens, (via Paris), Nov. 27.—The Quadruple Entente ministers sent to the Greek government yesterday a new collective note outlining certain measures which the powers desire Greece to take in conformity with the preliminary agreement reached recently. Premier Skouloudis had a long conference with King Constantine, after receiving the note. A cabinet meeting followed.

The note was in response to the Greek government's request to the powers to indicate precisely their views respecting the desired greater freedom of movement for the troops of the Allies in Greek territory and the nature of the responsibilities which the Entente Powers consider Greece neutrality entails.

It is considered probable here that a solution will shortly be reached based on the outlines of the agreement previously outlined, with unimportant modifications, that the Allies are to have liberty of action on Greek territory for their own security, and railway and traffic facilities, and that they are not to be disarmed should they be forced to retreat into Greece.

STEAMER ZEALANDIA PURSUED BY AN UNKNOWN CRUISER

Escaped by Running Within Three-Mile Limit Off New Jersey Coast.

New York, Nov. 27.—The American steamer Zealandia, which was recently boarded and searched by an officer and men from the British cruiser Iris at Progreso, Mexico, arrived here today and reported having been pursued last night by an unknown cruisr off the New Jersey coast. The night was unusually hazy and the Zealandia ran inside the three-mile limit and thus escaped the cruiser. Captain Devantier said the cruiser was in sight for half an hour when it disappeared in the fog.

Captain Devantier denied emphatically that the Zealandia was engaged in contraband running, as had been reported, or that any portion of the crew were Germans.

GOVERNMENT STILL TAKING TESTIMONY

Trying to Prove Watson Mailed Obscene Literature.

WATSON WINS A POINT

May Prove His Writing Not Mentioned in Indictment Are of "High Class Nature"—Trial to Be Resumed Monday.

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 27.—The government late today rested its case in the trial of Thomas E. Watson, of Thompson, Ga., charged with sending obscene matter through the mails in issues of his several publications. The government introduced testimony that copies of the publication containing the alleged improper language had been sent through the mails and that Watson had signed certain statements of the three publications mentioned in the indictment. Prof. R. L. Pulliam, heading the chair of Latin at Mercer University, Macon, Ga., translated into English certain parts of the alleged obscene matter which had been published in Latin.

The government appeared to rest its case solely on an effort to prove that the articles containing alleged obscene matter went through the mails and that Watson was responsible for their having been mailed. The jury, the prosecution held, should determine whether the language was obscene. After examining John M. Barnes, former Thompson postmaster, and J. Q. West, present Thompson postmaster, two postoffice inspectors and Prof. Pulliam, the government read to the jury and introduced as evidence the articles mentioned in the indictment as containing obscene language. Watson entered a formal exception to the entry of the articles contending that the entire magazine should be entered and not parts of it. He previously had been overruled in an attempt to force the prosecution to enter the complaint against the magazines. The case will be resumed Monday.

Marvin Brown, editor of The Menace, a magazine published at Aurora, Mo., and whom it was reported soon will be placed on trial on similar charges, atempted the trial today accompanied by counsel.

Watson won a point thi afternoon when Judge Lamdin ruled that he might try to show that his writings other than those mentioned in the indictment were of "high class nature." Objection by the government had consumed almost the entire forenoon session. The witness, J. M. Barnes, former Thomson, Ga., postmaster, on cross-examination, said he considered Watson's literature of the highest class.

Arguing for the introduction of testimony to show the defendant's lofty motives in publishing the alleged obscene matter Don Clark, of Savannah, member of Watson's counsel, declared that to judge any matter by evil words contained it it, as he said the prosecution sought to do in this case, would exclude the Bible itself from the mails.

RESENTS ACCUSATIONS MADE AGAINST BOY-ED

German Embassy Likely to Protest to Government.

Reported That Ambassador Bernstorff Will Ask for Retraction, if Not an Apology, After Trial in New York is Ended.

Washington, Nov. 27.—The German embassy, according to information today from an authoritative source, resents the accusations understood to have been made against Captain Carl Boy-Ed, German naval attache here, in the trial in New York of Hamburg-American Line officials. It was said Ambassador von Bernstorff was preparing to file a vigorous complaint with the State Department at the conclusion of the trial, asking at least for something in the nature of a retraction, and possibly for an apology.

The German embassy, it is understood, has not yet decided just what form the protest will take. The embassy is particularly anxious to determine whether Captain Boy-Ed included, by inference or otherwise in the reference made by Assistant United States District Attorney Wood to the defendants in the case, as "riding rough shot over the laws of the United States, treating them as if they were scraps of paper."

It was said by a person in close touch with officials of the embassy that it was felt Captain Boy-Ed had

CONSIDER CALLING PEACE CONVENTION

Two N[illegible]al European Powers Already Active.

SA[illegible]MME. SCHWIMMER

[illegible]dent Anxious for Peace and Promised to "Endeavor to Unite Official and Unofficial Opinion to That End."

Washington, Nov. 27.—Two neutral European countries already are considering calling a formal convention of neutrals to discuss means of ending the European war, and three others have given assurance that they will participate in such a convention, according to Mme. Rosika Schwimmer, of Hungary, one of the women who called at the White House yesterday to urge President Wilson to take the initiative for peace.

Mme. Schwimmer visited the Swiss, Norwegian, Swedish and Netherlands ministers today and laid before them the information given to the President as to the feeling of European neutral governments toward the project. She left tonight for New York preparatory to taking passage on the peace ship Oscar II early next month.

Mme. Schwimmer would not give the names of the European neutral countries she referred to, but said all of the foreign ministers abroad upon whom she had called had been very anxious to learn what the American position would be. She indicated that the European neutrals believed the United States should take the initiative, both as the most important of the neutral powers and because its great distance from the scene of the struggle made for impartial action.

The neutral ministers here were told today, Mme. Schwimmer said, that regardless of where a formal conference of neutral governments was called a popular congress would be held in some neutral European capital which would draft a plan for peace and formally present it to each of the belligerents. The hundreds of letters and telegrams sent to President Wilson during the past few days in the woman's campaign to induce him to take the initiative for peace have been passed on to the State Department which tonight issued a statement saying the suggestions they contained would receive "the attention of the Department."

PRESIDENT IN SYMPATHY

Mrs. Snowden Gives Out Statement of Interview Friday.

New York, Nov. 27.—Mrs. Philip Snowden, wife of a member of the British parliament, who, with Mme. Rosika Schwimmer, of Hungary, interviewed President Wilson last night to gain his support of the proposed conference of neutrals to initiate peace, quoted the President today as having said:

"You need not plead with me. I am anxious, most anxious, to do all that I can for peace. I shall earnestly endeavor to unite official and unofficial opinion to that end."

Mrs. Snowden, through the Woman's Peace Party, gave out a typewritten statement of the interview, before her departure on the steamship Ryndam today for England, where, she said, she was going to ask Mr. and Mrs. George Bernard Shaw and other prominent English men and women to meet at The Hague the pacificists who sail December 4 on Henry Ford's "peace ship," the Oscar II.

Fears Acting at Wrong Time.

"President Wilson is in absolute sympathy with the peace idea," read the statement. "There is not the slightest doubt that he wants to do something, but he hesitates lest he

ALL RESTRICTIONS ON TOBACCO ARE REMOVED

Great Britain Yields to American Representations.

Shipments to Neutral Consignees in Neutral Countries Will Not be Interfered With—Warehouse Situation Relieved.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Great Britain has yielded to the American representations for removal of all restrictions on the shipment of tobacco to neutral consignees in neutral countries. Word of this reached here today from the American embassy at London. The Netherlands government also has removed similar restrictions. The British embassy today sent the following message to Secretary Lansing:

"The foreign office informs me that the British government agrees for the present not to interfere with the cargoes of tobacco shipped to neutral consignees in neutral countries and state that in these circumstances tobacco in all its forms destined for Holland will no longer be required to be consigned to the Netherlands Overseas Trust."

The removal of the British restrictions, protested against by representatives of tobacco producing states, relieves a situation which resulted in over-stocking of the tobacco warehouses. Scarcity of ships to handle the product and high freight rates now confront tobacco shippers.

DEFENSE PROPOSAL NOT BROAD ENOUGH

So Regarded by the National Security League.

BUT IS STEP FORWARD

Plans of Both Army and Navy Regarded in Committee's Report as Incapable of Securing the Country from Attack.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—The preparedness programme of President Wilson was endorsed as a step in the right direction in committee reports on the army, the navy and the militia, read before a conference of the National Security League here today. On each aspect of the problem, however, the committee findings were that the administration had not indicated a desire to go far enough to make the country safe from attack.

The proposed army increases, it was pointed out, should be broadened to provide for extensive and continued education of officers and for collection of large reserve stocks of supplies of all kinds. The navy plan was criticised as extending over too long a period for completion and as making no provision for adequate personnel on ships built, being built and proposed.

The project for a "continental army" was endorsed merely as a first step and a suggestion was made that all men between the ages of 18 and 21 should be enrolled and have military education.

Many Delegates Present.

Delegates also were present from more than half a hundred cities, when the conference opened, the representatives of branches of the league including governors, former governors, several city executives, educators, business men and editors. Among those attending are Governor Walsh, of Massachusetts; Luke E. Wright, of Tennessee, former secretary of war; former Senator LaFayette Loung, of Des Moines; Governor Dunne, of Illinois, and Henry A. Wise Wood, president of the Aero Club.

The report of the navy committee began with a strongly worded wish that the league go on record as believing "that the American navy should at once be restored to the position of second naval power which it held but a few years ago." The committee said this work should be undertaken "immediately." The report added:

"The League believes that an essential weakness in the proposed increase of our naval establishment, as reported in the press, lies in the failure to provide for an adequate increase in the personnel."

Navy Short of Men.

Figures were then quoted tending to show that the navy is short between 50,000 and 55,000 men of the number required to man the ships already built or building.

"To correct a popular misapprehension, it must be made clear that this shortage of men is not due to difficulty in recruiting," said the report. "The sole trouble lies in the fact that Congress has limited the number of men to 51,500."

It was added that the proposed recommendation of the Secretary of the Navy for 10,000 more men was inadequate and that there was also a shortage of at least 2,000 officers. The proposed increase of 250 midshipmen was criticised adversely on the ground that "the first year building programme alone requires 475 additional officers."

The committee endorsed the building programme "so far as it follows the recommendations of the general board," but said that since no Congress can bind succeeding congresses, the ships contemplated should all be laid down at once.

TWO ARE DEAD, FOUR MISSING FROM BURNED STEAMER TIVOLI

Remainder of the Passengers and Crew Saved by Rescue Ships.

Baltimore, Nov. 27.—Two persons are dead and four are missing of the 88 known to have been on board the steamer Tivoli, burned last night on Chesapeake Bay near Annapolis. Mrs. Eva Bowden, a passenger who was ill, died on a life raft shortly after leaving the steamer. The body of a negro stewardess was taken out of the water near Annapolis tonight. The missing are two children of Captain Howard, commander of the Tivoli, and two of the crew.

The rest of the passengers and crew were taken off by relief vessels. Seventy-one of the number were carried to Norfolk by the steamers Florida, City of Baltimore and City of Annapolis.

The Tivoli left Baltimore last evening for Crisfield and Snow Hill, Md. The cause of the fire could not be learned.

Norfolk, Nov. 27.—The steamers City of Baltimore and Florida arrived here this morning with a number of people rescued from the steamer Tivoli of the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway, burned last night in Chesapeake Bay. The Tivoli caught afire about 8:30 P. M. So quickly did the fire progress that the entire aft of the boat was ablaze when the first alarm was heard by passengers.

Among those rescued and brought to Norfolk were Mrs. J. B. Hinton, Reedville, Va., and Tom Drummond and Lizzie Drummond, of Onancock, Va.

Corpus Christi, Texas, Nov. 27.—The Texas State Teachers' Association, in session here today, voted down a resolution which would have pledged the "mild support" of the association to woman suffrage.

The Man Who Tried to Save Edith Cavell.

Mrs. Brand Whitlock. Brand Whitlock.

Brand Whitlock, American minister to Belgium, who tried even when on a sick bed to save Edith Cavell, the British army nurse, who was shot to death by the Germans, has just come back to the United States with Mrs. Whitlock. He is worn out and nervous, and needs a rest. But he will go back to his post before the new year.

A committee from Toledo, where Mr. Whitlock was mayor, met him in New York to ask him if he would accept the Democratic nomination for vice president with President Wilson. If he told the committee he would do so the fact was not given to the newspaper men. To them the American minister would say little about the war; in fact, he refused to discuss it with anyone.

DEFY RAIN TO SEE ARMY DEFEAT NAVY

President and Mrs. Galt Scorn Shelter of Grand Stand.

OVER 40,000 SEE GAME

Scores of Men Prominent in Official, Military and Naval Circles Attend. Some Sidelights of the Annual Struggle.

New York, Nov. 27.—President Woodrow Wilson, his fiancee, Mrs. Norman Galt; Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison; Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels; Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, and scores of men prominent in official, military and naval life, were among the more than 40,000 persons who watched through a drizzle and fog that partly obscured the players at times, the football game between military and naval academies here today.

A light rain fell almost continuously during the first half of the game, but the President and Mrs. Galt scorned the shelter of the grand stand and occupied an open box directly in front of the Navy cheering section.

In the President's party besides Mrs. Galt were Mrs. William H. Bolling, Mrs. Galt's mother; Miss Bertha Bolling, Mrs. Anne Howe, the President's sister; Mrs. Anne Gothran, the President's niece; Secretary Tumulty and Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the President's physician. At the end of the first half, President Wilson and his party left the open box, while the 600 midshipmen saluted and stood at attention as the President and his party walked across the gridiron to the Army side.

The 800 Cadets arose and also saluted and stood at attention when he had reached a box in the upper tier of the grand stand. By this time the drizzle had virtually stopped.

Mrs. Galt wore a dark blue velvet dress, blue hat and a large white neck piece; at her waist was a large bunch of orchids.

From the time the Cadets marched into the field headed by the Army band, volleys of cheers and songs rolled back and forth across the field. Shortly after 1 o'clock the battalion of Cadets marched on the field. The members of the band swung on to the playing turf but the sod was soaked and the musicians slipped and slid while discordant notes resulted.

After some fancy drilling on the field, the Cadets marched into their cheering section and cheered and sang while the crowd poured into the big stadium.

The failure of the regiment of Midshipmen to appear at the field before 2 o'clock caused some comment. At one minute after two the Navy band advanced on the field while the Cadets and spectators cheered.

After the game the Cadets swarmed into the field, cheered their victorious team, congregated in front of the Navy section which was making more noise than at any other time during the afternoon and then the jubilant West Pointers followed their band in a snake dance about the field and between the goal posts.

THREE TRAINMEN'S NEGLIGENCE FATAL

BAD FLAGGING A CAUSE

Flagman on Special and Engineer and Fireman on Regular Held Responsible for Death of Two and Injury of 22.

Salisbury, N. C., Nv. 27.—An investigation by Coroner Summersett, of Rowan county, into the cause of the wreck of the special train, second Number 32, by Southern Railway passenger train No. 38 in the local yards Wednesday night, when C. E. Hall and H. C. Severs, of Charlotte, were killed and 22 other passengers were injured, ended late this afternoon, the jury finding three trainmen, Flagman Clyde Wilson, of the Special; Engineer A. Tankersley, of No. 38, and Fireman Arthur Kelly, guilty of negligence.

The jury after finding that Hall and Severs came to their death by being killed in the wreck places the blame as follows:

"First, that Clyde Wilson, a flagman, was grossly negligent in failure to display the proper signals to protect his train, No. 32, against No. 38.

"Second, That A. Tankersley, engineer on No. 38, was negligent in disregarding signals at the block and not bringing his train under control as per the rules of the company.

"Third, that Arthur Kelley, a fireman, was guilty of contributory negligence in failure to observe and notify the engineer of the displayed signal on rear of train No. 32."

The grand jury in Superior court is expected to investigate the wreck Monday. The grand jury adjourned over, it was said, to await the verdict of the coroner's jury.

At the investigation Engineer Tankersley told the coroner that "in my judgment improper flagging caused the wreck." He claimed that there was nothing about the electric block signal to indicate a train ahead and that the same signal would have been showing had there been no train ahead. He said he never knew until this accident that "this signal gave him only qualified right of way."

Gardner Slightly Improved.

The condition of O. Max Gardner, of Shelby, the worst injured of the 22 passengers, was reported slightly improved tonight.

Engineer Tankersley stated that the top light on the automatic block signal showed a red and the bottom light green, which allowed him to proceed toward the passenger station where the excursion train stood.

The inquest was started shortly before noon and the examination of witnesses was conducted by Solicitor Hayden Clement for the State. Engineer Tankersley was the first witness called, and his fireman, Arthur Kelley, followed him on the stand. The taking of testimony was completed shortly after 1 o'clock and the jury retired.

GENERAL FUNSTON NOW IN COMMAND AT NOGALES, ARIZ.

Orders Reinforcements to Take Position Near International Boundary.

MANY VILLA PRISONERS

Over 100 Wounded Villa Soldiers Are Being Cared for by the Americans.

Nogales, Ariz., Nov. 27.—Nogales, Sonora, today presented a desolate appearance following yesterday's battle between Villa and Carranza troops. The bodies of many Villa soldiers remained where they fell, shot down either by the fire of American soldiers across the International line, or by Carranza troopers who occupied the town.

Major General Frederick Funston, who arrived here today and assumed command of the 2,500 United States soldiers on duty, ordered the soldiers of the 20th infantry who arrived from Douglas to reinforce the border patrol, to make camp near the International line where yesterday one American trooper, Stephen Littles, of Fairmont, N. C., was killed, and two others wounded in an engagement with Villa snipers after the main Villa forces had evacuated Nogales. He said the seventh regiment would arrive from Douglas tonight.

Several Leaders Shot.

Many stores and other buildings in the town, which had been looted and in some cases were wrecked by the Villa soldiers, were closed today. Reports that the Carranza authorities had shot several looters were confirmed. The bodies of three men were visible from the American side. Villa currency left in the town was confiscated by General Obregon and burned.

Carranza officials said they had received reports that Magdalena, on the railroad leading to Hermosilla, had been captured today by their forces. This could not be confirmed.

General Funston said today that Jose M. Acosta, formerly a general in Villa's army, also crossed the border Thursday night and expressed a desire to reside in the United States. He was given his liberty after promising to take no further part in the fighting against the Carranza forces.

The case of Carlos Randall, acting Villa governor of Sonora until he took refuge here the night before last, will be considered at a conference between General Funston and G. Padres, Carranza consul, later.

Disposition of prisoners who deserted the Villa ranks and fired at United States troops yesterday took up the greater part of General Funston's time today.

Over 100 Villa Wounded.

Following the release of 70 former Villa soldiers, who escaped amnesty from Obregon, General Funston sent word to Obregon that if any of the prisoners released re-joined the Villa forces and eventually were re-captured by the United States troops, they would be summarily dealt with. There remained here tonight more than 100 wounded Villa soldiers, who are housed in a school building.

Major W. L. Mix, of the Carranza forces, headed a committee of citizens and solicited funds in Sonora for a testimonial of appreciation of the gallant defense made in behalf of Nogales, Sonora," by the United States troops. It was decided later that a portion of the proceeds would be used to purchase a wreath to be placed on the bier of Private Littles.

The remainder of the fund will be used for the purchase of delicacies for the wounded American soldiers.

RAIDERS HAVE DISAPPEARED.

Foreigners at Los Mochis, Mexico, Are No Longer Menaced.

Washington, Nov. 27.—The raiders whose activities in the vicinity of Los Mochis, Mexico, caused the Navy Department to dispatch the cruiser San Diego from San Francisco last Thursday for Mexican waters, have disappeared and the menace to the Los Mochis foreign colony is over, at least for the present, according to advices to the State Department today. A search for the raiding party, the dispatches said, failed to reveal in what direction they had withdrawn.

The San Diego is expected to reach Topolobampo, 15 miles from Los Mochis, next Wednesday. The gunboat Annapolis already is at Topolobampo.

BOARD PROPOSED TO REGULATE COASTWISE SHIPPING RATES

Expected to be Recommended With Ship Purchase Bill.

Washington, Nov. 27.—President Wilson is expected to recommend to Congress in connection with the new ship purchase bill that power be vested in the proposed shipping board to regulate the rates and practices of all steamship lines which ply to and from American ports in much the same way as the rates and practices of railroads now are regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Plans for the new legislation propose that the shipping board shall consist of the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of Commerce, and three shipping commissioners. The rate-making power to be asked, will cover the rates of foreign as well as domestic steamship lines, and apply to shipments which originate in foreign countries, but are destined to points in the United States. Advisers of the President are convinced that such legislation would be constitutional.

NAVY'S "WIND TUNNEL" IS LARGEST IN WORLD

Plant Where Aeronautical Experiments Are Made.

Eighty-Mile Gale Can be Created for Making Tests of Aeroplanes—Description of Plant at Washington Navy Yard.

Washington, Nov. 27.—The largest plant in the world for aeronautical experiments is at the Washington navy yard here and is known as the wind tunnel. The scheme was worked out by navy designers and a huge weight-carrying biplane soon to be constructed at the yard will be built on data gathered from the tests made in the big wooden box where an 80-mile gale can be created and its effect upon the planes of a proposed aircraft can be weighed to within 1-2000 of a pound.

The present tunnel is a temporary one and navy officers hope that Congress will authorize the construction of a permanent aeroplane experiment plant when the value of the scheme is fully realized. The tunnel is eight feet square inside and at one end is an electric fan driven by 500 horsepower motor. At the opposite end are baffles, or carefully built apertures to allow the blasts created by the fan to escape without generating any back pressure to destroy the value of the experiment.

Coming down through the roof of the tunnel is a metal lever to which are attached the model planes to be tested. These are about a foot long representing the full sweep of a 60-foot lifting surface. They are modeled in exact reproduction of the real planes and can be set at any angle. Above the tunnel is the weighing machine, an intricate system of levers and fulcrums leading finally to the indicator needle, swaying along a graduated quadrant where the divisions are so minute that they must be read with a magnifying glass. The mechanism is so delicately adjusted that a pressure of 1-2000 part of a pound will be noted by the vibrations of the needle.

When the plane model to be tested has been set, the big fan is started and a wind force developed in the tunnel that can be increased or decreased at will. Step by step the operator notes the weights shown by the scale for winds of various intensity and with the plane set at various angles. From his data he then plots the curve of the lifting power of the plane and the power necessary to drive an aircraft equipped with planes of that type at any desired speed. The results also will show the surface friction of the air against various kinds of material used in plane construction.

By means of the tunnel an aeroplane speedometer is being worked out which will show aviators the exact speed at which they are traveling, indicated on a dial as with an automobile instrument. This is of great importance to air men as the stability of their craft depends largely upon speed and any decrease in speed as shown by the indicator would give warning of engine trouble before the motor actually went dead.

Much experimental work for private aircraft builders is being done at the government wind tunnel and a systematic series of experiments has been planned to contribute data of inestimable value to aeroplane constructors generally when compiled in tables.

been very harshly treated in the circumstance and that too much had been made about his connection with the case. The embassy was further described as feeling that Captain Boy-Ed had done nothing that, under the law, he did not have a perfect right to do, and that, all things considered, he had done no more than naval attaches of embassies of the Entente Allies. As to the form of the embassy's protest, it was said, much depended on the outcome of the trial. Should an acquittal result, the embassy might feel that in making complaint it would stand upon much firmer ground, as it could point out, incidentally, that the defendants had themselves been freed of the charges made by the government. Whether they are acquitted or not, however, the belief prevails in German circles that Captain Boy-Ed's name was needlessly brought in and that needless things were said about him.

SECRETARY DANIELS SPEAKS TO LOTOS CLUB IN NEW YORK.

Says Wireless Telephony Will Soon Extend Around the World.

New York, Nov. 27.—Wireless telephony will soon extend around the world, Secretary of the Navy Daniels told guests at a banquet given at the Lotos Club tonight in honor of John J. Carty, who recently has succeeded in extending the uses of the wireless telephone.

"We thought until recently that wireless telegraphy was the last of modern miracles that had to do with communication," said Secretary Daniels. "Recently the world was amazed when from Washington, without wires, the human voice was heard in San Francisco. When fully perfected, we may talk to our friends from 'Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strands.' The man whose genius is making this miracle possible is Mr. Carty."

FRENCH SOLDIER A SUICIDE.

His Confession Resulted in Arrest and Execution of Miss Cavall.

London, Nov. 27. — A message from Brussels, forwarded from The Hague, by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent, says that the French soldier whose confession to the German authorities resulted in the arrest and execution of Miss Edith Cavall, has committed suicide by hanging in the military prison there.

Rev. Edward Sinclair Alderman, D.D., pastor of the First Baptist church, of Spartanburg, S. C., who is in the city on a short visit to his mother, Mrs. Alfred Alderman, will preach at the First Baptist church this evening at 7:30 o'clock. It is expected that a large congregation will hear Dr. Alderman, who is an eloquent and forceful speaker.

War News at a Glance

The strip of territory held by the Serbians along the western edge of their nation has grown notably thin under the steady pressure of the Teutonic allies. Along the northern end of the line the Austrians have cleared the region of King Peter's troops for some distance to the southwest of Mitrovitza, while the Germans have advanced across the Sitnica river and occupied the heights on the left bank, across the Kossovo plain from Pristina.

The Bulgarians in the south are reported by Berlin as having crossed a line running through Stimia and Ljubeten, the latter place about 20 miles east of Pristend, which lies close to the frontier, Stimila is directly north of Ljubeten. The Bulgarian drive seems to threaten the complete shutting off of a Serbian retreat to the southward except through Albanian territory.

In south Aerbia there are signs of renewed activity on the part of the forces opposing the Bulgarians. According to an unofficial report, the Serbians have recaptured Krushevo, 20 miles west of Prilep and some 25 miles northwest of Monastir. Serbin's allies may be able to give her substantial help in this area soon as it is reported that 125,000 troops have already debarked at Saloniki and that Allied forces continue to land there in large numbers.

Athens reports that a new colective note has been sent to Greece by the ministers of the Entente Allies outlining mensures which it is desired Greece shall take in conformity with the preliminary agreement. A consultation between King Constantine and Premier Skoulondis and a cabinet meeting followed the presentation.

On the Gallipoli peninsula the Turks have been on the offensive on land and the Allied forces on water. Constantinople claims that by a surprise attack a considerable section of Allied trenches near Ari Burnu were won. An attack by battleships and moulters near Anafarta was ineffective, it is declared, one monitor being forced to retire.

Neither Paris nor Berlin reports happening of consequence on the western front. Berlin also is silent as to operations in Russia, inactivity apparently ruling there.

KIOTO'S PART OF CORONATION CEREMONIES COMES TO AN END.

Emperor and His Court Depart From the Ancient Capital.

Kioto, Nov. 27.—The period of coronation ceremonies, which has lasted three weeks, was brought to a close so far as Kioto is concerned with the departure today of the Emperor and court for the modern capital of Tokio, permanent seat of the imperial house. Besides the court functions there have been observed various ceremonies in celebration of the coronation including industrial exhibitions held at the instance of the prefectural authorities and various business corporations and religious ceremonies conducted at various temples. The Christian communities took a prominent part.

Hosts of people streamed into the old capital from every nook and corner of the country to witness the imperial procession to and from the palace to the various ceremonial grounds.

Because the time concurred with the season when numbers of country folk habitually make pilgrimages to the grand Ice shrines, the coronation period drew these pious peasants to Kioto. The Ise temples and other mauselea were visited by unusually large numbers of pilgrims. The pretty Japanese hotels and inns were crowded with these visitors to their last accommodation. The larger hostelries and foreign hotels were no less patronized, all being crowded with guests, both Japanese and foreign. To meet the need of the occasion the municipal and prefectural authorities utilized temples and many Japanese houses.

The coronation ceremonials having ended, the Emperor and the whole court which accompanied His Majesty started for their permanent abode in Tokio this morning. Prior to the Emperor's departure, the imperial sanctuary, the holy of holies and the shrines dedicated to the spirits of the imperial ancestors were taken back to Tokio. The departure of the imperial sanctuary and shrines and the Emperor was celebrated in appropriate way, the whole city being en fete with a display of flags, green arches and other forms of decoration. Following the imperial departure most of the dignitaries and high officials also left for Tokio.

ATTRACT MUCH ATTENTION

President and Party Will Not Return to Washington Until Monday.

New York, Nov. 27.—President Wilson and his fiancee Mrs. Norman Galt, and a large party of friends and relatives came here today to attend the Army-Navy football game. They attracted almost as much attention as the players themselves. Despite the rain, they remained until the end of the game and said they enjoyed it. They will return to Washington Monday.

After the game the President took Mrs. Galt to the apartment of Miss Gertrude Gordon, her friend; Miss Margaret Wilson to the home of friends of the Wilson family and then went himself to the home of Colonel E. M. House where he had dinner. Mrs. Galt, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Field Malone, and other friends were guests at dinner of John W. Wilson, a cousin of the President's, and Mrs. Wilson. Tonight the President, Mrs. Galt and other members of the party, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson at a theatre party.

WILL IMPROVE TACTICS

Braves' Conduct Next Year Will Be Better, Says Gaffney.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 27.—The Boston Nationals whose "kicking" tactics on the baseball field during the past season were criticised in some quarters, will improve their conduct next year, if President James E. Gaffney has his way. In a letter mailed tonight to every one of the Braves under contract, the club executive announces his "determination that the conduct of the team shall be above criticism."

C. Crowley, in San Francisco, yesterday, in connection with alleged plots against munitions factories. Officials, however, refused to discuss Crowley's case or to predict to what it might lead.

HEAVY TOLL PAID BY FRANCE IN OFFICERS

Nearly 2,000 Saint Cyr Graduates Killed Last Year.

This Number Includes 287 of the 2,000 Cadets of the Classes of 1914-15 —Many Also Among the Wounded.

Saint Cyr, France, Nov. 27.—Saint Cyr, the West Point of France, made heavy sacrifices to the country in the first year of the war. Nearly 2,000 of its graduates were killed, including 287 of the 2,000 cadets of the classes of 1914 and 1915. Thirty-one of these young officers were decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor, nearly 700 of whom were cited in orders of the day and more than 500 were wounded. Altogether, more Saint Cyr men perished on the battlefields of Morhange, Charleroi, the Marne, the Aisne and in the Vosges than were killed in the battles of Austerlitz, Eylau, Jena, Wagram, Moskva, Montmirail and Waterloo. Nearly as many died on the field of honor from August 1, 1914, to August 1, 1915, as had previously fallen from the date of the birth of the academy in 1802.

On July 20, 1914, the class of 1915 was drawn up in the spacious court of Louis XV, and with impressive ceremonies entered upon its military career under the name of Croix Du Drapeau (cross of the flag) each class at Saint Cyr always receiving at the time of its promotion a distinctive name.

Jean Allard Meeus, the poet of the class, recited a patriotic poem, his only contribution to literature but one that will make his name enduring. When he had finished reading his inspiring lines a voice cried out from among the exalted thousand young patriots:

"Swear, all of us, that when we go into action it will be in full uniform, with white gloves and plume flying in our shakes."

A thousand voices blended in one reply:

"We swear it."

Some war correspondents have thought to have discovered some d'Artagnan's among the French soldiers at the ronft. With the cadets of Saint Cyr the spirit of Cyrano de Bergerac and the cadets of Gascogne may surely he said to live again.

The soldier poet, Jean Allard Meeus, kept the oath that he had taken. He went into action in full uniform the most conspicuous target of all, leading his section to the assault, and was one of the first to fall. On August 22, at Charleroi, second Lieut. de Fayolle, of the class of the "Croix du Drapeau," received his batism of fire. Under a furious shelling by the German artillery his men hesitated. Lieut. de Fayolle, turned to encourage them but perceived that though he had kept his vow to go into the fight with white gloves, he had forgotten his red and white plume. Immediately drawing it out of his knapsack he stuck it into his shake and the section, electrified by his example rushed forward.

"You are going to get yourself killed, Lieutenant," cried a corporal.

"Forward! Forward! was the young soldier's reply as he bounded forward at the head of his men. A few minutes later he lay inanimate on the Charleroi battlefield with a bullet-hole in his forehead directly underneath the red and white plume.

Lieut. de Castelnau was a member of the "Montmirail" class. He, with his section, held the enemy in check half a day and at the very moment when he had succeeded in throwing them back received his death wound.

"He had a noble end," was the comment made by his father, General Curieres de Castelnau, on being informed of his death.

Second Lieutenant Lanquetot, aged 19, cited in the orders of the army for his presence of mind in taking command of his company under fire after the commandant had been wounded, and fo rthe courage, coolness and energy he showed, was a "Croix du Drapeau" man.

Second Lieutenant Wacher, another "Croix du Drapeau" man with his section held a bridge head an entre day in order to facilitate a difficult retreat. He got every man away safely at night and in good order, a most creditable achievement when it is considered how much easier it is to maintain men in attack than in retreat.

A young Saint Cyrian, wounded once and returned to the front, took command of a company of territorials, all old enough to be his father. "My dear old daddies," he calls them, and every one of them swears by him and each and every one would give his life for him.

The story is told of a second lieutenant of the class of 1914 who was leading his section on the line of the Yser in junction with the Belgian troops, without apparent consciousness of a great danger that he was running into.

"Where are you going like that, lieutenant?" asked an officer of King Albert's staff.

"As far as the Vistula, commandant; the Russians are calling for us," was the reply.

"How I wish the world could have heard his men laugh behind him as if they were deaf to the screeching of bullets all around," said the Belgian officer. "And how I would love to command French troops," he added.

"Why?" someone asked, "Are they braver than others?"

"No, it's not that; the others are quite as brave only the French soldiers are joyously brave."

The 475 young men accepted at Saint Cyr but who were still in their year's service with the rigement before entering ewre also promoted second-lieutenant, and 51 of them have been killed, while the proportion of wounded and honors is about the same as in the other classes. They had no opportunity to be christened at Saint Cyr, but in view of the heroism they showed they had the honor of being christened on the field of battle the "Grande revanche." This name was particularly appropriate for although the average French civilian had ceased to think of recovering Alsace-Lorraine befor ethe war, the Saint Cyrians, never; from class to class since 1870 the idea of the recovery of the lost provinces was passed with the interesting ceremony of christening and baptism and the moment was awaited amidst souvenirs that kept alive the idea. One of the conspicuous ornaments of the school is a life-size statue of General Bourbako, one of the heroes of the war of 1870.

Saint Cyr altogether has furnished the French army 1,850 generals, 31,323 officers, the first of whom to die for his country at the battle of Wagram. Four Saint Cyrians becamé marshals of France; Pelissier, Canrobert, MacMahon and Forez, while it has the honor of having graduated one king—Peter of Serbia.

might act at the wrong time. When I suggested that it was regrettable that the English people had gotten the idea America wished the war to go on, for the sake of the money made out of it, he said earnestly that it was very unfair that the American point of view should have been so presented to England.

"But we cannot expect fairness in war, can we? I reminded him. In our conversation with him either Mme. Schwimmer or I used the word 'plead.' He spoke most sincerely, saying, 'you need not plead with me. I am anxious, most anxious, to do all that I can for peace. I shall earnestly endeavor to unite official and unofficial opinion to that end." Both Mme. Schwimmer and I believe that was all that could possibly expected of the head of a great government."

Definite announcement that Henry Ford had obtained accommodations—the entire first and second cabins—for his "peace party" aboard the steamship Oscar II was made tonight by the Scandinavian-American Line. The third cabin will be given over to regular travelers.

NAVY MEETS DEFEAT BEFORE THE SUPERIOR ARMY ELEVEN

Powerless to Check Rushes of Oliphant, Who Twice Pierced Middies' Line for Two Touchdowns and Two Goals, Making Score 14 to 0—44,000 See the Game.

New York, Nov. 27.—The Army football eleven, showing a better state of preparedness, triumphed over the Navy team here today 14 to 0. Twice during the battle the Soldiers hurled a 42 centimeter shell in the person of Elmer Q. Oliphant, through the protected armor of the Sailors' battleship, and in the gray dusk of a drizzling afternoon the midshipmen craft sank with every gun working desperately but fultiely. Although the Middy team fought with unflinching courage, the struggle availed it nothing against the overwhelming power of the cadets' attack.

The irresistible charges of the former Purdue University star could not be stopped by the Sailors and the West Pointers time and again pierced the first and second lines of defense, until the Navy was bent and exhausted by its efforts to check defeat.

Had Oliphant been injured in the opening minutes of the conflict the Midshipmen might have had a chance, but the middle western football battering ram refused to heed the savage tackling that scarcely halted his mad rushes. Through the line and around the end he crashed or sprinted, hurling off tackler after tackler, until the Middies found that it required the entire eleven to stop him at times.

President Wilson and some 44,000 other spectators watched the battle, forgetting in their enthusiasm the clammy, gray mist and the occasional drizzle of rain which marred an otherwise perfect gridiron classic fought out in a setting never surpassed in the history of the Army-Navy football series. The improvised gridiron at the Polo Grounds was surrounded by permanent and temporary stands which housed a distinguished host of government, army and navy officers, as well as prominent society representatives from almost every city in the country. In the midst of the gaily colored throng two spots of unusually brilliant hues stood out where the two battalions from the academies were quartered in the side line stands. From these points of vantage the Cadets and Middies hurled songs and cheers across the field, led by the blare of the rival institution bands. The vocal uproar was terrific and sustained. From the minute the two elevens went into action, the sound waves rolled to midfield, where they crashed over the heads of the steaming, struggling players.

The break of the game came almost immediately after the kick-off and it was the West Point team that profited. Craig muffed a high, twisting kick from the toe of Army Fullback Coffin. Right End Neyland dived through the mud and clutched the spheroid on the Navy's 10-yard line.

When Quarterback Gerhardt entered his masked battery and fired Oliphant into the Sailors' scrimmage line, the player from Purdue ripped everything out of his course and slid across the goal line with three Middies clinging to his legs. To complete the task he kicked the goal.

The Sailors stuck to their guns throughout the remainder of the first and second periods without further damage, but with the beginning of the third quarter Oliphant was again turned loose on the Navy, and for the second time found a vulnerable point in the Annapolis defense. The touchdown came quickly and expectedly. The Soldiers kicked off and Craig ran the ball well back. On the second line-up, he attempted a forward pass, but Center McEwan, of the Army, speared the ball in mid-air. He immediately sprinted for the Navy goal and passed the 25-yard line before he was pulled down. Here Oliphant was given the ball and stepping through a hole in the center of the Sailors' line, he dodged and ducked his way past the secondary defense for the Army's second touchdown from which he kicked goal, completing the scoring for the day.

Although Oliphant was the star of the game, his brilliant play was made possible by the excellent support by the other members of the Cadet eleven. Before the contest the wagering was favoring the Army at odds of 5 to 3, and the result showed that these figures, based upon the season's play for the two teams were not misleading.

With both elevens keyed to the last notch there was the same variance in offensive and defensive strength as has been indicated by the respective work all fall. The Cadets showed the greater power, both in attack and in defending their own goal line. Annapolis lacked the drive and strategy to pierce the West Point forwards for consistent gains and their best exhibition was on the defense. The Sailors fought hard that the Army time and again was forced to kick after failing to gain by either plunges or edge runnings. In these exchanges of punts Oliphant kicked to Von Haimberg and later held his own against Blodgett. McEwan's passing for punts was better than Goodstein's and the Army line as a whole, gave better protection to Coffin than the Navy kickers received. The heavier West Point eleven was able to use its weight to advantage in the slippery going and the players of both teams kept their footing in a remarkable manner.

While the play was of the usual hard character that marks the annual meeting of the two service elevens, it was extremely clean throughout and the best of feeling prevailed among the players.

The victory of the Soldiers today was the third consecutive one in as many years and put West Point in the lead in the series which began in 1890. Since that year 26 games have been played between the two academies and the count stands tonight ten games to nine in favor of the Cadets, with one match—that of 1906—a tie.

WILL HELP RAISE REVENUE

Kitchin Ready to Co-Operate After Programme is Adjusted.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Representative Claude Kitchin, Democratic leader of the House, who opposes the administration's National defense programme returned to the Capital today to prepare for the organization meeting of the ways and means committee next week. Representative Kitchin said he would favor a congressional inquiry into what he characterized as defense propaganda to determine whether it may be supported by persons allied with the manufacture of munitions. He did not comment on Secretary McAdoo's treasury estimates but said that when the preparedness programme finally was adjusted by Congress, he would co-operate with the administration on measures for necessary revenues.

"First, I want to keep the people from being taxed for preparedness," said Representative Kitchin, "but if I cannot prevent that I do not propose to oppose the party in providing the necessary revenues."

LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY CONVENTION PLANNED

One of 70 in America to be Held in Greensboro.

Only One to be Held in North Carolina at Greensboro in Early February. Notable Speakers Are on the Programme.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 27.—Plans for the great Laymen's Missionary Convention to be held here February 9, 11 and 13, were laid out on a big scale here last night by Dr. D. Clay Lily, one of the field secretaries; Dr. C. A. Bridgman, who will be the local executive secretary, and members of the local committee present.

Dr. Lily suggested a budget of $1,375 for the convention, this amount to include expenses of speakers, deputation work, executive work, publicity, printing, postage, incidental expenses, stenographers and office rent. This budget was adopted. The plan for raising the money will be worked out by the finance committee, of which Mr. J. Norman Wills is chairman, but it is believed that there will be registrations enough at $1 each to take care of all expenses.

The Greensboro convention will be one of 70 to be held this winter in the United States, and will be the only one in North Carolina. Other cities that will have the conventions are Richmond, Columbia, Atlanta, Birmingham, Houston, New Orleans, Jackson, Nashville, Memphis, Little Rock, Oklahoma City, Fort Worth, and Lexington, Ky.

The purpose is summarized as follows: "To consider great World movements, New World conditions, Stewardship, Prayer, Dedication, World Conquest." The conventions this year will be both like and unlike the great conventions inaugurating the Laymen's movement six years ago. In the details of working up the conventions the same methods will be followed. In program there will be a greater variety and more time for denominational meetings.

The conventions in the New England and other Northern states already held have been largely attended, and even a greater success than in 1909-10. This time both home and foreign missions are being considered. The great task of mission boards that will follow the European war is being considered.

Dr. Lily has already secured a number of speakers for the Greensboro convention. He hopes to have Wm. T. Ellis, as one of the speakers here and there is a possibility of the presence of Dr. J. Campbell White.

AN APPRECIATION.

To the Editor of The Star:

During the past week I had an opportunity to visit and inspect the new Royal Theatre on Front street, under the auspices of the manager, Mr. Julius P. Taylor.

It gives me pleasure to state that it is unquestionably the most superb, well equipped and perfectly managed moving picture theatre in the United States.

I am a traveling man and have been in every large city in the United States, from 'Frisco to Boston, and must say that the Royal is at the very top notch of the business and deserves the Palm of Praise.

Respectfully,
HERMAN CHESTER.

GLASS SAYS RESERVE BANK ACT IS WORKING OUT WELL

If Changes Are Made it Will Be After Careful Consideration.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Representative Glass, of Virginia, chairman of the House banking committee, said today that if his committee recommended any changes in the Federal Reserve Banking system at the coming session of Congress it would be only after very careful consideration.

"The Federal Reserve Act is working out well," said Representative Glass, and I believe the House banking and currency committee will take the position that this is no time to make radical changes in the law. The committee, of course, will carefully consider any recommendations that the Federal Reserve Board may make but will be reluctant to make changes that are not shown to be vitally necessary."

Boston, Mass., Nov. 27.—H. N. Chancey, an outfielder of the Macon, Ga., team, has been signed by the Boston Nationals, Manager Hapgood announced tonight. Chancey was second among North Carolina League batsmen in 1914.

Why Tolerate Catarrh?

You have noticed, no doubt, that any cold aggravates nasal catarrh, and the flow of mucous amazes you that such objectionable matter could find lodgment in your head. To ignore this catarrh when the cold subsides is wrong because it continues to slowly injure the delicate linings of the nasal passages and clog them up.

To correct catarrh, cleanse the nostrils frequently with a solution of warm water and salt, insert vaseline on retiring, and take a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion after meals for one month. Scott's acts through the blood to feed the tissues, and contains soothing glycerine to check the inflammation and heal the sensitive membranes.

Scott's is pleasant to take.

DEATH PLANNED WITH CARE

(Special Star Telegram.)

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 27.—D. M. Harshberger, bookkeeper for the Laurel River Logging Co., at Runyon, N. C., and formerly United States postoffice inspector for this district, committed suicide at Runyon yesterday, by shooting himself through the head, placing the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth in order to insure perfect aim. The body was brought to Asheville today and prepared for burial. The deceased had been despondent for several days and had shown evidence of melancholy.

He made careful preparations for the deed, leaving a note saying that he was "going on a long journey," and directing the disposition of his three children. He also requested that the officers of the Masonic lodges at Asheville, of which he is a member, be notified. Masons took charge of the body and notified his sister, a Miss Harshberger, at Philadelphia. Mr. Harshberger was for several years postoffice inspector in this district and was widely known. He was also well known in the lumber business in which he has been engaged for several years.

E. F. YOUNG FOR CONGRESS

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 27.—There is much interest here in the announcement that Ernest F. Young, of Dunn, expects soon to issue a statement declaring himself for Congress against Congressman Godwin, the general extrict and setting out something of a platform in which he will ask the people of the district to send him to Washington as their representtive, Mr. Young is prominent in Democratic circles in his section and ha represented his county in the Legislature several terms. With such an abundance of candidates for Congress, as have already indicated their candidacy against Congressman Godwin the general expectation is that there is sure to be the most strenuous sort of a long drawn out contest.

Mr. Young's entrance into the race will make six candidates in the Sixth; Messrs. Godwin and Young, of Harnett; J. W. Little and Herbert McClammy, of New Hanover; J. A. Brown, of Columbus, and Q. K. Nimocks, of Cumberland. It is understood that the list of prospective candidates is now complete.

Cleanse The Blood Banish Rheumatism

Rheumatism Due to Bad Blood. S. S. S. Your Remedy

Thousands have been made well. People in the poorest health, suffering from Rheumatism, with whom pain was constant. Who believed that their vitality was sapped beyond repair. It was proven to them that the cause of their trouble was the blood; that Uric Acid, the most faithful ally of Rheumatism, had gripped them. The poison in the blood had sapped its strength. The weakened blood had allowed poison and impurities to accumulate, and all energy was gone. They felt "poorly," were listless, pain was ever present, with poor digestion and dyspepsia. They tried S. S. S.,—nature's blood tonic. They gave up drugs. This compound of nature's remedies of roots and herbs did what drugs failed to do. It literally washed the blood free from poison, and with the flow of pure blood came back health, strength, vigor and happiness. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. Insist upon S. S. S. If yours is a long standing case, write for special advice to S. S. S. Co., Atlanta, Ga., but begin taking S. S. S. at once.

TOP O' THE MORNING

Many a man misses the best in life by his failure to recognize the frailty of fine emotion. His soul is stirred by a sincere and noble emotion, but he dallies with it, neglects, defers putting it into definite form, and it speedily faints and dies. He thus becomes guilty of what one writer calls "Spiritual murder", for when this man procrastinated with his great emotion he was really making an alliance with death.

Every Napoleon has his St. Helena.

How about reviving that old game, Mumble-the-Peg?

Probably Texas is mad because a lot of Villa money has been passed off on her citizens.

A man may have the courage of his convictions but that's not a sufficient apology for them.

What's the use to share the gate receipts with any fellow who wants to argue against peace at any price?

Some men would be gratified if we had the biggest navy in the world, provided it wouldn't cost them anything.

We haven't the heart to blame any of them for talking for money. That is better than trying to pass Villa money on us.

Colonel Roosevelt does not care one Joto about national preparedness. He is going to write magazine articles urging militarism for America.

According to the Jacksonville Times-Union, "science says kissing belongs in the dark ages." Science surely must be trying to show up the dark ages in their best light.

A great many people believe that Peary discovered the North Pole because he says he did. Believing that there is a North Pole and believing that Peary went to it, typifies faith.

It is stated that the weight of more than one hundred girls in the Kansas state university exceeds 200 pounds each. No wonder Kansas is always demanding cheaper freight rates.

A New York court has sent a man to the penitentiary for defrauding 1,500 amateur poets. Probably he felt like something should have been done to them but he did wrong in doing it.

There are vague rumors that Bob Gonzales, of the Columbia State, proposes to rock the boat with himself on the sea of matrimony. Probably he does not know that it never will be included among the free seas.

Now that the country has two presidents, Colonel Roosevelt can disapprove both at the same time. For instance, there are President Wilson of the American Union, and President Taft of the American Red Cross Society.

Unkind words possibly may be forgiven, but when once spoken they can never be recalled or forgotten. Harsh words and mean and spiteful utterances unfortunately get to the ears of beings made with memories which do not let them forget if they would.

One day of Thanksgiving is like swelling up over what we achieve each year in a land of great resources and advantages. We ought to be thankful every day that our lot has been cast in America where we have wrought out liberty and where industry is so richly rewarded.

Senator Stephenson, of Wisconsin, claims that he spent $500,0000 in promoting the rise of Senator LaFollette. The claim is not made as a boast, however, but as a complaint, owing to the fact that after LaFollette got all his own ducks in a row he made advances on the entrenched positions of the senior senator. Quite naturally Senator Stephenson is bitterly disappointed over the fact that Senator LaFollette has never paid him any gratitude on account.

GREAT WOMEN SAVE THE DAY

When Christopher Columbus first became imbued with the theory that the earth was round and therefore was moved with the spirit to go forth to discover unknown lands, many crowned heads, boneheads and reputedly wise men regarded him as mad. In the language of today, they regarded Columbus' idea as a pipe dream and looked upon him as a nut. Not so with Queen Isabella, who pawned her rich jewels and provided the daring explorer with three ships.

Queen Isabella was an intelligent woman and agreed with Columbus that there must be a great Western continent. She believed in Columbus also and to her we really are indebted for the great country which we afterwards took and to which a few years ago we added Panama, after President Roosevelt "took" it. We continue to take the whole country from each other every four years, and yet none of our politicians have ever done as much for us as Queen Isabella.

The Spanish queen was an alien, but she was a smart women and it is to her that we owe homage of some kind. We do not know that she was ever adequately thanked for what she had done for America, but we ought to thank Spain for her without neglecting it any longer. Along with every statue of Columbus there ought to be a bronze stute of Queen Isabella, who otherwise is about to be forgotten by some people who think they are doing more for the country than the queen ever did. Queen Isabella was our New World mother and she was too noted and distinguished a woman to be almost forgotten while we are talking about the other millions of great women of the world.

Yes, there have been great women in all ages of the world. "Opportunity made them great," the historians say, but it was only opportunity they needed to prove that they were great. If women were not given to start with, an opportunity would be worth very little to them, but it is opportunity which we must give to women as well as to men, for we are liable at any time to give opportunities to the right women and the right men.

We have great women right here in Wilmington and they never have an opportunity that they do not prove that they are capable of doing even greater things if they had the larger opportunity. Woman has her innate genius and has possessed it ever since the first woman took the leading part in the dawn of creation. America also is full of great women, and we suppose we will yet have to depend upon them to erect a monument to the great Spanish queen who really gave us America.

We are not starting anything new, but we happen to think about this because we started out by feeling some sense of gratitude to Queen Isabella for what she did for us. She made a tremendous sacrifice to have America discovered for us, and yet we hear many loud complaints for fear we will have to pay taxes for safeguarding the great possessions which Queen Isabella made it possible for us to inhabit as our own. Some men are not in favor of protecting and safeguarding the greatest country in the world, but if they do not take care. American women will take advantage of the opportunity to see that America must be adequately prepared for self-preservation.

It was when the men of France had failed in 1429 that Jeanne d'Arc had her opportunity to become a heroine and a conquerer for her beloved France. She even planned battles and led armies against the invaders and saved her country. A woman promoted the discovery of America and we may yet have to depend on the women to see that it is safeguarded.

MONUMENT TO WAR HEROINE.

From the London Telegraph of recent date it is learned that the movement in the United Kingdom to erect a monument to Miss Edith Cavell, the martyr nurse, is widespread. A large fund already has been subscribed, and it is touching to note the sources of subscriptions, ranging from small to larger amounts. The sums come from all over England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, and even foreign countries. Children contribute their mite and their teachers write for them the pathetic sentiments which make them wish to have a share in honoring the memory of a woman who was shot as a spy at the brutal behest of war.

The Cavell monument fund amounted to more than $10,000 up to the first week in November. The Telegraph publishes a column and a half of short tributes to Miss Cavell, accompanying each remittance for the fund. A nurse in remitting a check for her contribution writes:

"May I contribute the enclosed small sum to our Memorial of Nurse Cavell? It was my great privilege to work under her for a time when she was staff nurse in charge of Mellish Ward of the London Hospital. I was her probationer on my first night duty. Hers must have been a great personality, for she stands out through the years among the many nurses with whom I worked—a perfect gentlewoman, dignified, full of courage, and full of charm—never too busy during those busy nights to help, teach, and encourage her young probationer, full of kindness to all, always painfully anxious that things should really be right, not only look so; a clever and conscientious nurse. I can vividly recall her tired face as she went off duty after a long and arduous night, her pretty bright color paled, but that and the lines of weariness discounted by her lovely brown eyes shining and steadfast. She never spared herself in those days, which were at the beginning of her life's work of self-sacrifice, which has terminated in such a glorious and pathetic manner. She simply did her duty then in the same unassuming and self-forgetting manner that was characteristic of her at the end. I thank you for the opportunity of contributing, if only a little, to the perpetuation of the memory of this great and good woman. Surely the manhood of England will not delay, but will quickly rise to follow her noble example."

This helps people to get a closer view of the personality of the unfortunate nurse, who, after learning that she must be shot, calmly said she was willing to die for her country. A teacher wrote: "We are glad to have a small share in honoring her patriotism, unsullied by hatred or bitterness of spirit, and feel that any honor paid to her is also a tribute to the many brave women who also have given or are willingly risking life and health for the cause of country and humanity."

There has been no more tragic incident of the horrible war in Europe than the execution of the martyr nurse and both the circumstances and the memorial to her will be an enduring part of the history of the great conflict.

THE VOYAGE FOR PEACE.

Governor Locke Craig last Thursday received an invitation from Mr. Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, who has chartered a steamship and will carry a large number of guests to Europe on a voyage in behalf of peace. Governor Craig expressed sympathy with the movement and stated that, while it would be exceedingly difficult for him to make the trip, he would gladly confer with Mr. Ford while in New York Friday, to which place he was preparing to go when he received the Detroit manufacturers' invitation.

Mr. Ford is at the Biltmore hotel, New York City, and he and his party are busily engaged in making arrangements for the sailing of the peace ship, set for next Saturday, December 4th. The Scandinavian-American liner Oscar II is the one chartered by Mr. Ford, and a large party has accepted invitations to accompany him. A large number of answers from invited guests and people interested in the voyage of peace are being received night and day by Mr. Ford at his hotel headquarters. Mr. Ford says he has invited many of "the leading men and women of Europe" to join his party on the other side.

Mr. Ford bought the entire passenger room on the ship, 125 first cabin, 125 second cabin, and 450 third cabin accommodations—700 in all. It is said the amount he paid was $32,000, including the $5 head war tax for each of the 200 or more passengers expected to be with Mr. Ford on his peace mission. Among those who will take the trip are Mr. Andrew Carnegie, Mr. Thomas A. Edison, Miss Jane Addams, Mr. John Wanamaker and some governors and other prominent men and women.

UNPATRIOTIC POLITICS.

It is rather disgusting that on the eve of an election year, some members of the opposition parties are engaged in an effort to make capital out of the manner in which President Wilson has handled the relations of the United States with the warring countries in Europe. The New York Journal of Commerce deprecates the disposition of many influential men to bring about a party division over the war in Europe when it is in no sense an issue in next year's campaign.

It would indeed be unfortunate and, says that paper, it "may be regarded as good politics by these party opponents, but it is bad patriotism, and if the instincts of the people are sound and their appreciation of the situation is what it ought to be, it will not prove successful in politics."

The fact is, any American, Democrat or Republican or Progressive, who embarrasses either a Democratic or a Republican administration handling a foreign situation for the whole country and all its people, could not possibly be a patriot. Patriots stand together but it is party men and partisans who divide. President Wilson is not acting for his party. He is acting for the Republic itself.

The Journal of Commerce justly condemns such scurvy politics and reminds the American people that "there has been for more than a year past an evident desire on the part of the head of the present administration to maintain the position and pursue the course that is best for the Nation and its people as a whole, and most likely give it a potent influence for the maintenance of peace in the future."

Certainly any man who would thwart such a purpose for the sake of politics would not only not be a patriot but would be about the smallest among peanut politicians. It is hard to believe that any man would invite the contempt of the American people by such a course.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The Wilmington Star carries a story, "Impressions of Baby Show—by a Spectator." Why, when about it, didn't it follow the metropolitan custom and have an expert report by one of those accustomed to carrying the bawl?—Raleigh Times.

Senator Sheppard of Texas, comes to bat with the announcement that he will introduce a bill for national prohibition in the higher house on the day of the opening of Congress, and Representative Webb, of North Carolina, says that he will do the same in the lower branch. Evidently these two gentlemen be not of the Peace-at-Any-Price party.—Raleigh Times.

OVER TWELVE MILLIONS.

Taxable Value of Greensboro Property. Increase of $1,600,000.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 27.—The total value of property in Greensboro for purposes of taxation is $12,100,000, an increase of $1,600,000 over last year and a considerable increase during the last four years. A great part of the increase this year was brought about by the quadrennial assessment of real estate value, but the regular annual increase in taxable values is over half a million dollars.

LUMBERTON FAIR THIS WEEK A LARGE AFFAIR

Much More So Than Promoters Hoped For at First.

Blockade Still Captured—Dancing School—Business Change—Death of Mr. Boggs—Mr. Hartley Improving.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Nov. 27.—The poultry and livestock exhibit opens here next Thursday for three days, and the indications now are that it will be a much larger affair than the promoters had any idea at the beginning that it would be. It looks now as though the exhibits of all kinds would be plentiful and of high class. The tobacco warehouse will be used for the occasion and it is being put in readiness for the reception of exhibits. Everybody is invited to come and enjoy the occasion.

Thanksgiving Day passed off quietly here. The weather was ideal. All the church services were well attended, as they always are in Lumberton on Thanksgiving Day. Many guns and dogs went to the woods and it is reported that quite a number of birds were killed, though the writer has not seen one thus far this season.

Rural Policeman L. H. Townsend and Constable Tew went into the edge of a mill bay in St. Pauls township, about nine miles north of here, Thursday and brought forth a 30-gallon blockade still, fully equipped for business. No one was present and no liquor could be found, though it was evident that the plant had been operated within 24 hours. It is said that the still was "made in Lumberton," but it bears no imprint.

Miss Thompson, of Washington, D. C., arrived here yesterday to spend a month instructing a dancing class of young people of Lumberton. A short meeting was held last night at which all arrangements were perfected. It is understood that there are about 20 young men and probably as many young ladies in the class. It is very probable that the class will give a big dance at the close of Miss Thompson's instructions.

A well fed farmer was in town this week wearing a look of satisfaction that was calculated to make others feel better. He stated that he had enough sweet potatoes to supply his family for two years and more syrup than they could use in ten years. Besides these two items his corn and bacon supply was all that he needed. And there are others in Robeson in the same independent condition. Robeson is the county for farmers who will work.

The J. P. Newman Company, which was chartered a few days ago, has purchased C. H. Cartee's 5, 10 and 25 cent store and will continue the business at its present stand, increasing and enlarging the stock as demands require. Mr. J. P. Newman, who has been the clever manager of the store for the past year or two, will continue in charge of the business, and that the new business will be a big success under his management there is no doubt, as he is well qualified by practical experience to make the enterprise succeed.

Visitors to the Pastime theatre last night declared they saw the best Paramount picture they had ever looked at. It was the picture showing the Mexican invasion of California in 1840, featuring Dustin Farnum. During the next two weeks the Pastime will present Blanche Sweet, Hazel Dawn, Mary Pickford and other Lumberton favorites. Beginning next week, "The New Exploits of Elaine" will be run twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday, so as to finish this serial before the new year comes in.

Tomorrow, November 28, will be the 78th birthday anniversary of the mother of your correspondent and, while she is nearly a quarter of a century older, she gets about as well as he does. She was one of a family of 13 children, but is the only one here now. she has two brothers, both veterans of the War Between the States, now residing in Texas, to which state they went more than 40 years ago, and one sister residing in another county in this State. The writer, being the oldest of nine children, knows more of what our mother endured in the dark days than any one else. Mother and two little children lived alone while father was on the battlefields. Lightwood knots were used for candles. Many nights did the old spinning wheel put the kids to sleep, while during the day the old-fashioned loom would keep sleep away. The writer remembers when our mother went all the way to Rockingham, 50 miles distant, part of the way by stage, to buy one block of cotton yarn, 5 pounds, if we remember correctly. Your correspondent remembers when his mother and two or three other mothers made a trip to South Carolina to buy corn to be used for bread. But it is gratifying that she has lived to see the time when this is again a land of plenty, and we hope for her many more birthdays surrounded by her seven living children.

A large delegation of Lumberton people went to Richmond for Thanksgiving, returning several hours behind time yesterday. There was a wreck on the Coast Line between Dunn and Selma which caused the delay. Some members of the party stated last night that no one was hurt, but others carried visitors to Wilmington in 1909 back to scenes following the wreck of the "Taft Special."

When Mr. George B. Boggs passed away last Sunday a truly good man went to his reward. The writer had known Mr. Boggs intimately only for a few months, but long enough to learn that he was an exceptionally good man. Of a quiet, retiring disposition, he was always careful of the feelings of others, never uttering a word of anything but good for anyone. A man more devoted to his family never lived. Mr. Boggs was highly educated and no one could remain in his company long before a feeling of regret would come at parting. As soon as their affairs are adjusted here, Mr. Boggs' family will go to New York to reside.

When Thanksgiving was over there were 60 quarts of liquor left in the express office. It is very evident that several people changed their minds.

Merchants are already beginning Christmas decorations, indicating that they are expecting good business, which it is hoped will be realized.

Mr. W. H. Bass and family, of Charlotte, were Lumberton visitors Thanksgiving, having made the trip that morning in their automobile. They returned home today.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Williams and little son, who were called here on account of the death of Mrs. Williams' father, will leave tomorrow for Mount Airy, where they will resume work next week in the theatrical business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Munds, of Wilmington, spent Thanksgiving in Lumberton the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Holloway. Mrs. Munds is an aunt of Mrs. Holloway.

Quite a number of boys and girls attending the various colleges of the State came home for Thanksgiving.

Mr. A. M. Hartley, bookkeeper at the Lumberton Cotton Mills office, was operated on at the Thompson hospital last Sunday night for appendicitis. His many friends will be delighted to know that he is improving rapidly and hopes at an early date to be able to resume his duties.

Certainly if Leader Kitchin's followers refuse to follow, he should decline to lead; so much should be required by his self-respect, but his fight for principle might make him a candidate of the real Democratic party for the presidency—he could at least repeat Mr. Taft's struggle for a true faith.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

BIG BAZAAR HERE BEGINS WEDNESDAY

Everything in Readiness for Big Event to Open.

Ladies' Aid Society of German-American Alliance Ready for Affair at Germania Hall—Entertainment.

The big bazaar, to be held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the German-American Alliance, at the Germania Hall, corner Front and Orange streets, will begin Wednesday morning, and will continue for three days.

Everything is practically arranged and completed for the big event. The entire building has been utilized for the benefit of the bazaar. The entrance on the lower floor will serve as a reception hall, and immediately to the right will be the dining room, and back of that is the culinary department. The lunch arrangement will be under the efficient management of Mrs. C. P. B. Mahler.

To the left will be the ladies' reception and rest room, and in the rear of that the gentlemen's billiard and smoking room.

The decorations on the lawn floor will consist of an intertwining of the German and American colors on a background of white, while potted plants and floral ornaments will add to the beauty. The service in the dining room will be most enticing. Suppers, consisting of salads hot and cold, meats, oysters, tea and coffee, will be served every evening between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock. Mrs. Mahler, as well as the other lady chairmen of the various committees, will be assisted by the other ladies of the committees, whose names were published some time ago.

The spacious hall upstairs has been given up entirely to the bazaar. It has been decorated in a live green upon a white background, the green consisting of bamboo, long leaf pine, potted plants, etc., the whole making a refreshing appearance. The booths are grouped around in a circle against the walls of the hall, with a large booth in the center.

On entering, at the right will be found the post card and novelty booth, presided over by Mrs. C.H. Bornemann. On the left will be the ice cream and cake department. This is worked into a beautiful little garden with small tables and chairs, garlands of flowers and green foliage finishing the picture. Young girls will act as serving maids, while Mrs. A. D. Wessell will be in charge.

Then there is the country store with Mrs. M. G. Tiencken as the guiding genius. This feature will, as it always does, furnish merriment for young and old.

The doll and baby booth, in charge of Mrs. V. Zoeller, will make a specialty of dressed dolls. With the approach of Christmas, this will be a joy spot for the tots. Mrs. G. H. Haar has charge of the Christmas booth, filled with toys of all kinds.

The chance booth is under the management of Mrs. W. B. Schuler, who has many surprises in store for the lucky ones.

The beautiful fancy designs and hand made needle work may be found in the booth presided over by Mrs. J. H. Kuck, while Mrs. H. L. Vollers will vend the sweets and aromatic Havanas in the cigar and candy booth.

One of the most artistic attractions of the bazaar will be flower booth and cake booth in the center of the hall. Here one may find the extremes of the aesthetic on the one hand and prosaic on the other, which under the artful arrangement and by the clever hands of Mrs. C. W. Polvogt and her assistants has been made to blend into a harmonious whole.

Music will be rendered every evening by orchestras and soloists, which will add much to the hilarity of the spirit of the occasion. Many original schemes will be resorted to increase the interest, and consequently the income, of the affair, the object of which is charitable and to meet the demands of the human spirit of healing the sick and succouring the nedey.

To Fortify the System Against Winter Cold.

Many users of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC make it a practice to take a number of bottles in the fall to strengthen and fortify the system against the cold weather during the winter. Everyone knows the tonic effect of Quinine and Iron which this preparation contains in a tasteless and acceptable form. It purifies and enriches the blood and builds up the whole system. 50c.

GOING AFTER BLIND TIGERS

Recorder Empie seems to have taken off his gloves to handle the much despised liquor traffic in the city. Two men were in court yesterday morning with the result that one got a road sentence, while the other is under $100 bond and his case is continued. There were several minor alleged offenders dealt with lightly.

George Robinson, colored, was found guilty of violating the prohibition law and sent to the county roads for a term of four months in default of a $50 fine. Elijah Chadwick, white, was given a hearing on a similar charge and let out under a $100 bond to await another hearing next Tuesday.

Arthur Brown, colored, was found guilty of assaulting a female and disorderly conduct, and required to pay the costs in each case. Mary Brown, colored, was tried for assault with deadly weapon, but the charge was changed to a simple assault and she was let off upon payment of the costs. She was also heard in a case charging her with a trespass, and given a nol pros. with leave.

Mr. W. H. Alexander was given a hearing on charge of violating the city driving ordinance, but the case was dismissed.

Charlie Hill and Joe Johnson, colored boys, were found guilty of firing rifles in a cemetery, but on account of their age, were paroled in the custody of their parents.

Mr. A. F. DeVere was tried on a charge of violating the tax ordinances, but judgment was withheld.

ST. JOHN'S AND ST. PAUL'S CHURCHES IN JOINT MISSION

Called by General Convention for Nation-Wide Preaching Mission.

In response to a call for the General Convention of the Episcopal Church, held in New York City in 1913, for Nation-Wide Preaching Missions in their churches throughout the United States, the Episcopal churches all over the land have arranged for such services at this, the Advent season, it having been designated.

The churches in Wilmington arranged some time ago, with all the other churches in the Diocese of East Carolina, for their part in this Nation-wide movement, and St. John's and St. Paul's churches have arranged for a joint mission, which is to be held during the coming week at St. John's church, the preacher to be Rev. E. deF. Heald, rector of St. Paul's parish.

The first joint service will be held this evening at 7:45 o'clock and each of the churches will hold regular services this morning. The services will be every evening at 7:45 o'clock during the week, ending Sunday night, December 5th.

There will be a celebration of the Holy Communion Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:30 A. M., with a special celebration on Tuesday, St. Andrew's Day, at the same hour, as a Corporate Communion for the members of the St. Andrew's Brotherhood, all the chapters in the city being invited to participate. There will be Children's Day services on Thursday and Saturday at 4 P. M. The public is invited to all these services.

Rev. Dr. William H. Milton, rector of St. James' Episcopal church, has announced that beginning next Sunday, Rev. Dr. Loaring Clark, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, of Chattanooga, Tenn., will conduct a mission at St. James' church, corner of Third and Market streets. The meeting will last for eight days and will include two Sundays.

LETTER FROM MR. ROBERTS.

Former Boys' Director of Y. M. C. A. Now in European Struggle.

Friends in the city have received letters recently from Lieut. Edward Roberts, who is pleasantly remembered here as Boys' director of the Y. M. C. A.

He is now stationed at Avington Park Winchester, but expects to be in Serbia before Christmas. He sends greetings to his friends in Wilmington, and especially to the boys with whom his associations were so pleasant.

He states that one of his "signallers" named Powell, was one of the first floating Christian Endeavorers of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church of our city, and that they often speak in affectionate remembrance of their pastor, Rev. Dr. A. D. McClure.

Friends here hope that Mr. Roberts' life of usefulness among boys will be spared for the great work for which he has been called.

ATTEMPTED ANOTHER ROBBERY.

Thought Thief Was Thwarted in His Purpose by Patrolman.

With the back door broken open and a ham and some butter already carried into the back yard, Policeman Applebury appeared at the branch office of Morris & Co., meat packers, on Water street near Grace, Friday night about 8 o'clock and probably thwarted the thief in his purpose of raiding the place for a food lift.

It was not stated yesterday whether anything was missed, but it is thought that the patrolman's approach had been heard and the thief had just left to save himself.

RICAUD IS ENDORSED BY WHITEVILLE BAR

Solicitor Homer Lyon is Not Candidate for Judgeship.

Friends of W. P. Stacy, of Wilmington, and E. H. Cranmer, of Southport, Continue Active in Their Behalf

Addison G. Ricaud, Esq., of Wilmington, who has been endorsed by a majority of the Wilmington bar, was unanimously endorsed yesterday by the Columbus county bar for the appointment as judge from the Eighth district to succeed Judge George Rountree, according to a dispatch last night from The Star's Whiteville correspondent. This action followed the definite statement by Solicitor Homer Lyon, of Whiteville, who was in Wilmington yesterday, that he will not be a candidate for the judgeship and would not accept the office if tendered to him.

Solicitor Lyon's friends were sure that he could secure the appointment, if he would consider accepting the position, and he was urged to allow his name to be presented to Governor Craig for consideration. It was stated yesterday that J. T. Bland, Esq., of Burgaw, who has been mentioned for the appointment, would not allow his name to be presented and it is not expected that the Burgaw bar will have a name to present but may endorse one of the candidates now being actively backed by friends.

The friends of W. P. Stacy, Esq., of this city, have not been idle and his claims for the position as judge have already been placed before Governor Craig and it is understood that other strong endorsements will be sent to the Governor. His friends believe that he will receive the appointment.

It is understood that a delegation of Mr. Ricaud's friends, including several Wilmington attorneys, will go to Raleigh tonight and will appear before Governor Craig tomorrow to present his claims. Governor Craig was in New York yesterday to attend the Army-Navy football game but is expected to be back in his office tomorrow. Mr. Ricaud's friends have written letters to the Governor asking him not to make an appointment until the claims of their candidate can be presented to him in person.

Friends of E. H. Cranmer, Esq., of Southport, who has been unanimously endorsed by the Southport bar for the position, are working zealously in his behalf and several of them are understood to have seen Governor Craig early last week. The following is from this week's Southport News:

"There was much discussion around town Tuesday, as to the probable successor to Judge Rountree on the Superior Court bench from the Eighth Judicial district. The local bar has unanimously endorsed E. H. Cranmer, Esq., an able and efficient attorney for the appointment. Not only the lawyers and court officials, but many citizens of Southport and Brunswick county who know Mr. Cranmer, feel that the Governor could not make a more wiser appointment than in the person of E. H. Cranmer. Mr. Cranmer was born and raised in the Eighth district, is a true and ardent Democrat and has always exerted his energy and ability to the support of the Democratic party. He is a man of broad mind in legal matters is honest and fair in his convictions and for that reason the people of his home county feel that he should be considered for the appointment. The wire between Southport and Raleigh was kept busy throughout the day urging Governor Craig to consider Mr. Cranmer, and the mail has carried many communications of such nature. It is not likely that the Governor will make an appointment until next week, nevertheless Mr. Cranmer's friends feel that the Governor will give their candidate due consideration."

Governor Craig is going to appoint the man for the position whose friends are able to show that he is the best man from the standpoint of ability and character, according to a report brought back from Raleigh by a man who was in the Capital City last week. While such strenuous efforts are being made by friends to secure the appointment for their favorite, the appointment will be only until the next election which will be in the fall of next year. The voters of the Eighth Judicial district will therefore, have the opportunity to decide on the man they prefer for the place within less than a year's time. Candidates for the judgeship will be voted on in the primary which will be held next June.

A. G. Ricaud and W. P. Gafford, Esqs., returned on the late train from Whiteville last night and brought with them a copy of the petition which had been signed by all the members of the Whiteville bar with the exception of Solicitor Homer Lyon. The petition is as follows:

"Whiteville, N. C., Nov. 27, 1915.

"To His Excellency, the Governor of North Carolina:

"The undersigned, the members of the Whiteville, Columbus county bar, respectfully recommend Addison G. Ricaud, Esq., of the Wilmington bar, for appointment to the vacant judgeship of this judicial district and request that he be appointed.

"Very respectfully,

"L. V. Gr..ly, David J. Lewis, Donald MacRackan, Walter W. Powell, Jackson Greer, C. D. Koonce, Irvin B. Tucker, J. B. Schulken, M. H. Schulken, E. M. Toon."

SHORT LIVED LIBERTY.

Henry Green, Colored, Nabbed by Police Last Night for Gambling.

After serving 15 months on the county roads in New Hanover, Henry Green, colored, came to Wilmington for a rest from his arduous labors. But his liberty was short lived for he was nabbed by the police last night at Eighth and Harnett along with Pet Wells and Norman Parker, also colored, on a charge of gambling. There were others in the house engaged in the ancient game of shooting crop but they escaped, although there were a half dozen officers who took part in the raid.

The officers were Plainclothesmen B. W. Jacobs and Frank George and Policemen H. G. Bullard, W. T. Hansley and J. O. Bullard. The negroes were locked up at the police station.

SEMINOLE RETURNS TO PORT

Coast Guard Cutter Spent Three Months in Porto Rican Waters—Begins Her Winter Cruise.

After spending three months at San Juan, Porto Rico, for the purpose of enforcing the neutrality laws, the coast guard cutter Seminole reached Wilmington yesterday at noon and on December 1 will begin her winter cruise along the North Carolina coast. The Seminole was relieved at Porto Rico by the coast guard cutter Itaska. The cutter left her station in Porto Rico on last Monday and made the journey of 1,285 miles to Wilmington without a mishap of any kind.

Save for a few uncomfortable days in September and the heat and rainy weather in October, which made it far from pleasant, the members of the crew had a very pleasant stay at the Porto Rican port. However, all are glad to get back to Wilmington. Yesterday afternoon there was a constant stream of callers to the ship, and the people of Wilmington are glad indeed to welcome the cutter back to port.

Capt. Preston H. Uberroth, the popular commanding officer of the Seminole, was absent from the city on his vacation when the Seminole was ordered to Porto Rico last August but joined the ship early in September and returned with the vessel to Wilmington. He has a great many friends in Wilmington and is a most capable officer.

There are several German vessels interned at San Juan, Captain Uberroth stated yesterday afternoon, but most of the shipping at that port now is coastwise and there was little need for the services of the Seminole in enforcing the neutrality laws. The Seminole took the place of the Algonquin which was ordered to Haiti on account of the revolution which occurred there in August.

Captain Uberroth said yesterday that it had been the intention of the department all along to relieve the Seminole with the Itaska just as soon as this could be done and that he never received any orders relative to going to Savannah. It was reported here in marine circles several weeks ago that the Seminole would be sent to Savannah instead of returning to Wilmington.

While many of the coast guard cutters are being overhauled at the cutter repairing yards at Ann Arundel Cove near Baltimore, the Seminole underwent extensive repairs there two years ago and is in first class condition save a marine growth on her bottom and this can be removed in Wilmington on the Marine railway.

The Seminole was in command of Lieut. P. H. Scott when she sailed for Porto Rico in August. The other officers on the ship are: Lieutenants Wishaar, Armistead and Farley. Lieutenant Armistead, who has been doing special service on board the Seminole, will return this week to his regular station in Nova Scotia.

Members of the crew have been able during their three months' stay in the tropics to pick up a little Spanish, this being necessary in order to make their wants known, as most of the inhabitants are unacquainted with English. They had plenty of opportunities to go asnore and enjoyed it immensely.

Some of the crew were greatly surprised to find how the people in the tropics observe Sunday. Contrary to the custom further north, where Sunday is a day principally for religious worship, it is the custom to observe the Sabbath as a day of social pleasures and as one of the Seminole's crew expressed it yesterday, "Sunday is even more of a holiday than Saturday is in Wilmington."

One of the things that struck the visitors as rather odd were the narrow sidewalks. However, this does not prevent the placing of tables on the sidewalks and several sitting down and partaking of refreshments.

Quite a bit of sightseeing about the island was done by members of the crew with the aid of the motorcycle on board the Seminole.

MAGNOLIA HOME BURNED

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Scott, of Magnolia, whose son, Mr. G. C. Scott, of this city, is a popular conductor on the Atlantic Coast Line, had the sad misfortune Wednesday morning to lose their beautiful residence at Magnolia by fire, the loss being more than $3,000, which was partially covered by insurance. The blaze was discovered about 11 o'clock, having started from the kitchen flue, by a servant, all the members of the family being absent.

When the servant came out of the house about noon, the flames had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the home. The small chemical engine was soon put to work and hundreds of people worked faithfully to save the other nearby houses and the Methodist church which was in the immediate vicinity. The house was in such danger of falling in when the men arrived that almost nothing could be saved. The home and furnishings were completely destroyed.

The many friends have shown their deepest sympathy by many acts of thoughtfulness and love. Mr. and Mrs. Scott are now living in the J. F. Croom residence opposite the depot at Magnolia. The steeple of the Methodist church was badly burned and no more heroic effort has ever been witnessed in Magnolia than was demonstrated by the brave men to save the church.

—Mr. W. H. Cobb, Jr., who has been for several years in the office of Mr. J. W. Perrin, general freight agent of the Atlantic Coast Line in this city, has been appointed soliciting freight agent for the same road in Fayetteville. He has many friends in this city who will be glad to learn of his promotion.

A Smooth, White Skin That Defies Weather

During the coming months of biting winds and intense cold, you who would keep your skin smooth, white and velvety, should turn your attention to mercolized wax. Nothing else will so effectively remove a chapped, roughened or discolored surface. By gradually absorbing the weather-beaten cuticle, the complexion is kept in perfect condition, and even the beauty of expression appears more pronounced. If your skin be blotchy, pimply, freckled, coarse, sallow or over-red, why not shed it? One ounce of ordinary mercolized wax, to be had at any druggist's, will completely transform the most unsightly complexion in less than a fortnight. Use the wax nightly, like cold cream, washing it off mornings.

If weather, age or poor health has marred your face with wrinkles, here's good news. You can quickly remove every line by using a harmless, refreshing face lotion prepared by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. The firmer, smoother skin, the more youthful appearance, even after one application, will astonish you.

LUTHERAN PASTOR WEDS IN COLUMBIA, S. CAROLINA

A wedding of wide interest in Wilmington and elsewhere on account of the prominence of the groom, who is well known in the Carolinas, was that of Rev. G. W. McClanahan, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, of this city, and Miss Delia M. Lovell, of Farmersville, Texas, which took place last Wednesday in Columbia, S. C. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mrs. R. C. Holland, sister of the groom, who is well known here. Rev. L. G. M. Miller, D. D., professor in the Lutheran Theological Seminal, was assisted in performing the ceremony by Rev. W. H. Greever, editor of the "Lutheran Survey." The wedding was very quiet on account of the recent death of Rev. Dr. Holland and also on account of the recent illness of the groom.

On account of his recent illness, Mr. McClanahan was advised not to take the long trip to the home of the bride in Texas for the wedding and arrangements were made for the couple to meet in Columbia, S. C.

SOHMER PIANOS.

During every decade of its manufacture, since Hugo Sohmer first conceived the instrument which bears his name, the makers of the Sohmer Piano have consistently tried to build the most artistic piano in the world.

How well they have succeeded is indicated by the fact that more than forty thousand persons have purchased Sohmer Pianos.

The designing and building of an artistic piano like the Sohmer demands not only the highest mechanical skill; it requires, in addition, the temperament of an artist. Full understanding of artistic requirements and an appreciation of the most subtle distinctions of tone values are prime essentials to the builders of an artistic piano.

GIRLS--DO YOU KNOW WHY YOUR HAIR IS UGLY?

It is astonishing how much good looking hair does toward producing a youthful appearance and still more astonishing to realize how much the attractiveness of the hair is affected by the care we give it.

Loving care and frequent attention are as necessary to keep a woman's hair beautiful and luxuriant as is the tooth brush to keep teeth from decay.

Every woman who values the beauty of her hair as she ought to do should make it a never broken habit to frequently apply a little Parisian Sage, rubbing it briskly into her scalp with the finger tips.

Parisian Sage is Nature's modern handmaid to beautiful feminine hair. It is a simple, harmless compound of wholesome, nutritious ingredients that make an ideal lotion for nourishing both hair and scalp. It feeds and builds up the delicate hair and scalp structures making the hair soft, lustrous, brilliant and easy to dress and arrange. R. R. Bellamy and many other of our best druggists sell Parisian Sage and gladly recommend its use.

WILMINGTON WELCOMES METHODIST CONFERENCE

Will be Convened in Grace Church Wednesday Morning by Bishop Kilgo.

MORE THAN 400 COMING

Annual Meeting of Historical Society Will be Held Tuesday Night.

Conference Represents Membership of 85,000.

The North Carolina Methodist conference will convene for its 79th annual session in Grace Methodist church, in Wilmington, on Wednesday morning, with Bishop John C. Kilgo, of Charlotte, presiding, and will continue through the following Monday. The territory exmraced in the conference includes all of Eastern North Carolina as far west as Durham and Rockingham, being one of the largest in Southern Methodism. There are 197 pastoral charges and a total membership of 85,000.

There are nine districts in the conference, each of which has a presiding elder, as follows: Wilmington, Rev. L. E. Thompson; Durham, Rev. J. L. Cunningim; Elizabeth City, Rev. E. T. Adams; Fayetteville, Rev. J. T. Gibbs; Newbern, Rev. J. E. Underwood; Raleigh, Rev. M. T. Plyler; Rockingham, Rev. J. H. Hall; Warrenton, Rev. W. H. Willis; Washington, Rev. C. L. Read.

According to the laws of the Methodist church, all pastors and presiding elders are required to be changed after serving four years in one appointment. However, any pastor may be changed, and while there are only about 20 appointments that will have to be changed, it is probable that the number of changes will be much larger than this as there are always some changing about made because of peculiar conditions. While the reading of appointments by the Bishop is always the last thing on the programme and closes the conference, it is the most interesting feature.

There is but one presiding elder that has served for four years, this being Rev. J. E. Underwood, of the Newbern district. In the Wilmington district there are but two pastors that have served four years, these being Rev. J. P. Pate, pastor of the Whiteville church, and Rev. C. M. Lance, pastor of the Southport church.

In the Washington district there is but one pastor who has served four years, this being Rev. M. Bradshaw, pastor of the church in Wilson. This is regarded as an important appointment.

In the Raleigh district there is but one pastor who has served as pastor of the same charge for four years, this being Rev. A. P. Tyer, of Oxford. In the Fayetteville district changes will be made at Dunn and Duke, and a change must also be made at Hertford. The other pastors who must be changed are in charge of circuits, but it is believed that there will be several changes made in what are regarded as the more important appointments.

The conference has under its care a number of schools and colleges, including Carolina college, at Maxton; Louisburg Female college, and Littleton Female college, while Trinity college and the Greensboro College for Women are under the joint care of this conference and the Western North Carolina conference. The conference supports the Methodist orphanage at Raleigh.

It has been 13 years since the conference met last in Wilmington, and there have been many changes in the city since that time, so that the members of the conference at that time, who return thi stime, will hardly recognize the place. The past decade has witnessed the erection of many handsome business buildings, and marked progress in the building of beautiful residences. Perhaps no city in North Carolina has made more marked progress in the way of buildings in that time than has Wilmington.

The meeting of the Conference Historical Society on Tuesday night of this week will be an important gathering and one of wide interest to the members of the conference. The sermon by Bishop Kilgo on next Sunday morning will be one of the important features of the conference.

Bishop John C. Kilgo, of Charlotte, recognized as perhaps the most eloquent and forceful Methodist minister in the South today, will preside over the sessions of the conference. Bishop Kilgo was for 16 years president of Trinity College in Durham and under his administration the college made wonderful progress. Although a native of South Carolina, he has lived in this State so long as to be entitled to being known as from North Carolina. He has spoken in Wilmington on several occasions and has many friends here.

Rev. R. H. Willis, of Littleton, is secretary of the conference. He was elected tot this position in 1911, succeeding the late lamented Rev. W. L. Cunningim. By a long established custom, the position of secretary is usually held by the same man after his election as long as he is actively connected with the conference.

There have been several prominent ministers of the conference who have passed away during the past year, including Rev. J. N. Cole, for many years the able superintendent of the Methodist Orphanage in Raleigh; Rev. L. P. Howard, pastor of Duke Memorial, in Durham; Rev. J. M. Ashby, pastor of the church at Elm City, and Rev. Y. E. Wright, pastor of the Farmville circuit.

IF THE WAR AGAINST WATERWAYS WINS--.?

(National Rivers and Harbors Congress Circular.)

For two years in succession filibusters against rivers and harbors bills have been conducted in the United State Senate, the result in both cases being to prevent any appropriation for new projects, many of which are urgently needed ,and to make meager and insufficient provision for projects already under way, thereby seriously delaying their completion.

The senator who led both filibusters declared that "there are other cheaper and more efficient methods of carrying the products of farm and factory to market," and denounced "the wastefulness and the folly of Congress in seeking to promote a system of transportation which, save in very exceptional instances, is obsolete and of no value to the people." These statements have been endorsed by no inconsiderable portion of the press of the country.

There is, of course, always room for an honest difference of opinion as to the merits of particular projects, but these statements look to the stoppage of all improvements and the abandonment of our waterways as highways of transportation. They amount to a declaration of war. If this war against waterways wins, what then?

It would mean that the boats on all our interior waterways, except the Great Lakes, would go out of business and the railroads of the country would be given an absolute monopoly of inland transportation.

It would mean that towns and cities located on waterways would lose not only the direct benefit of water transportation but the indirect, and often much greater, benefit of water competition. As an illustration of the effect of such competition, the rate on flour from New Orleans to the inland town of Amite, 68 miles, is 34 cents per barrel; to Memphis, on the Mississippi river, 396 miles, it is 25 cents, both rates being by rail.

Under the law and the decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission relative rates depend not on the size of cities, but on some fundamental difference in conditions, such as the presence or absence of water competition. In a decision handed down April 3, 1914. The commission authorized the maintenance of rates lower than those to intermediate points to Dublin, Ga., a river city with less than 5,000 population, but denied this privilege to Atlanta, with a population of more than 175,000.

The abandonment of our waterways, with the consequent elimination of water competition, would destroy all justification for differential rate s to places located on those waterways.

Under existing condtions the merchants and manufacturers in the central portion of the country cannot compete for foreign trade with those on or near the eastern seaboard, especially to points via the Panama Canal. Failure to improve and use our waterways will work disaster, not only to cities in the interior, but to those on the coast as well. The prosperity of port cities and of the railways by which they are served depends upon the prosperity of the territory tributary thereto.

Much is being said about "National preparedness," and certain opponents of waterways are asserting that if it were not for "pork barrel" expenditures on rivers and harbors, we could have as large an army and navy as we need.

Compared with the United States the German empire has less than one-seventeenth the area, two-thirds the population, little more than one-third the accumulated wealth, and not a tithe of the natural resources. Yet Germany has developed a navy considerably larger than that of this country, and to say the least, one of the largest and most effective armies that the world has ever seen.

More than that, the foreign commerce of Germany has exceeded that of the United States for more than twenty years, the average annual excess for the five years ending with 1913 being $712,000,000. The fundamental reason for this startling difference is to be found in the German waterways, the improvement of whch is being continued even during the war.

Sustained military efficiency and continued commercial supremacy are both based upon industrial development; industrial development depends upon economy of transportation; and the cheapest of all transportation is water transportation.

THAT'S CITY POINT, VIRGINIA

A Corn Field That the War Has Made Into a Town of 27,000.

In The American Magazine for December an article by Meric Crowell describing the balvanic effect of the powder industry on real estate values says:

"The next report of the Department of Commerce will tell something of that miracle; yet it can give only a hint of the industrial magic that has studded the Eastern states with mighty manufacturing plants since the nations of Europe developed military hydrophobia only a little more than a year ago. Many of these plants are new; others are old ones grown greater.

"War waved his red wand above a hamlet at the junction of the James and Appomattox rivers—and a city sprang up overnight. Where forests of pine and dogwood looked down on rows of newly planted corn last spring, the largest powder plant in the world is standing today, and more than 25,000 men swear by it and at it. Already the buildings of the plant exceed over 167 acres. At City Point there are 22,000 powder employes and perhaps 5,000 other men, drawn thither, for the most part, by the desire to divert a golden stream near its source; for the semi-monthly pay roll of the duPont powder works is more than three-quarters of a million dollars.

"Flanked on one side by City Point village, the original settlement, and one the other by DuPont City, lies Hopewell, the most remarkable municipal prodigy ever produced east of the Mississippi river. Bret Harte would have gloried in Hopewell, for a mining camp in boom days must have been very like it; true, it lacks the mines, but when land worth $16 an acre a few months ago is selling for $16,000 a double building lot today, why should one delve into the bowels of the earth for further riches?"

WITH THE CLUB WOMEN

Federation News of North Carolina.

By Miss Mary Moses.

The seventh Reciprocity District of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs convened in Oxford on November 11th, in the Lyon Memorial Building. The president of the Oxford club, Mrs. A. H. Powell, presided. The invocation was made by Dr. A. P. Tyer, pastor of the Methodist church, and was followed by a piano selection by Miss A. E. Wortham, of Oxford.

The address of welcome was given by Mrs. C. Emmett Brown, to which Mrs. W. B. Waddill, State chairman of Reciprocity, of Henderson, gave a very interesting talk on Reciprocity—its meaning, help, and the results of what these meetings may bring about. One very strong point that she made was that the clubs of 25 years ago were organized for culture, but as club women have grown in their understanding of life, they have enlarged their definition of culture, until now it means the abolition of all social injustices, and improved conditions in all walks of life.

Interesting and stimulating reports were then heard from the Tuesday Club, of Henderson, the Alma Club, of Henderson, the Woman's club, of Henderson; the Milton Betterment Association, the Louisburg Civic Club, the Book club, of Weldon; the Book Club of Milton, and the Woman's Club, of Oxford. The Forestry department of the Oxford club told of a "Garden Mart" held in the spring, which was an inspiration to the town for the growth of flowers. The Health department showed itself especially interested in tuberculosis, and hoped to get the Federation interested in a plan to erect a child's pavilion at Montrose.

Miss Mary Shotwell then gave an interesting talk on her experience in organizing country life clubs, and reported having organized five clubs in Granville county already, with two more in the course of organization. She states that the clubs have been recently visited by Miss Minnie Jamison, of the Home Demonstration Work of the Agricultural Department, who is giving many helpful demonstrations.

Mrs. O'Neal, of the Vance county Community club told of her work in the organization of clubs in Vance county.

Mrs. C. Emmett Brown, chairman of the State Health department, read an interesting article on tuberculosis.

Miss Minnie Jamison, of the Home Demonstration Work of the Department of Agriculture, gave a very helpful five-minute talk on the iceless refrigerator, and other subjects of interest to housewives.

Mrs. Sidney Cooper, State chairman of finance, reported that the endowment fund has reached the sum of $1,000, and predicted that it would soon reach $5,000.

Mrs. D. Y. Cooper reported that Sallie Southall Cotton Loan Fund, is steadily growing, and that much good is resulting from its loans.

Mrs. A. M. Powell, sub-chairman of the Health Department, made a plea for greater interest in the sale of Red Cross Seals, and asked each club to set aside a portion of the money realized therefrom for a loan fund or equipment fund.

Mrs. S. V. Hollowell gave a splendid ten-minute talk on district fire prevention.

Lunch was served at 1 o'clock.

The afternoon session convened at 2:30, Mrs. John Webb, vice president of the Woman's Civic Club of Oxford, presiding.

Miss Hankins, director of music of the Oxford College, gave a beautiful piano selection.

Mrs. H. C. Cooper then introduced Mrs. Thomas W. Lingle, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, who touched upon many matters of interest in her address, and made a strong plea for the participation of club women in the moonlight school movement, and emphasized the fact that the teachers of the State generally were starting the schools and were working for a month, and that the club women ought to be interested in carrying on the work.

Mrs. A. M. Powell, State chairman of the library extension, gave a report of the work of her department, and spoke encouragingly of its growth.

Mrs. Webb introduced Mrs. Edward K. Graham, General Federation State secretary, who urged the clubs of the State Federation to join the General Federation, and emphasized the great advantage this would be to the General Federation and indirectly to the individual club.

Delightful music, furnished by the ladies of the Thursday Evening Choral Club, was then enjoyed by all.

On motion a rising vote of thanks was tendered to the Oxford Club for its bountiful hospitality.

The meeting adjourned after a most helpful and inspiring programme.

The Sesame Club, of Faison.

The following interesting outline of work done by the Faison Sesame Club was sent us by its president, Mrs. Marshall Williams, and will be read with interest by all club women:

The Sesame Club of Faison has 28 members and meets at private homes. At these meetings, which occur once a month, two members entertain in a literary way, and two members entertain in a social way. The line of study pursued by the club this year is the Bay View Reading Club on Our Own Country. Recently the club was entertained by the John M. Faison Woman's Country Club, Mrs. T. K. Adams, president, was hostess of the occasion, and the literary and social features were delightful. At the last meeting Mrs. J. D. Beatty and Mrs. Frank Lee entertained charmingly, and at this meeting Miss Emily Hill read a very interesting article on "Woman's Place in History." The Sesame Club has sent three of its members to nearby towns to deliver addresses on hygiene and economics.

BOUGHT A "CITY" UNDER THE SPUR OF APPLE BRANDY.

Wilson Planter Wakes Up to Find Himself Owner of a "Town."

The following interesting story, in which Judge George Rountree figures, appeared in the New York Herald of last Sunday under a Wilson, N. C., date line, being a "special dispatch to the Herald," dated Saturday:

"Job Hedges, of New York, once told a story down here of a New York man who went to a football game at Princeton and later refused to walk further down Broadway until he had bought the Hoffman House, which he succeeded in buying at public auction from a hack driver for $9.

"That's nothing compared to the experience of W. H. Tomlinson, a well to do planter of this city. He took a drink of apple brandy and bought a whole city. The details were told this week in an action in the county court here before Judge Rountree. J. D. Taylor was the defendant and the case has not yet been concluded. The action is to recover notes for $2,800.

"According to the story told in the court room, Mr. Tomlinson took one drink of apple brandy. Then he went out and met a friend who had some apple brandy. Then the two met a friend who had some apple brandy. After that the three met a friend who had some apple brandy. After that things are a little vague. Judge Rountree didn't insist on the witness being altogether too accurate about his recollections. But this he learned:

"Mr. Tomlinson drifted, or tacked, along to a real estate auction. There was a band to stimulate those who needed that kind of stimulation. Mr. Tomlinson says he didn't, although he evidently got some, too. They have bands at all the real estate auctions down this way. It helps buying. Mr. Tomlinson says he remembers the band but he had no recollection whatever of the deed to three and three-quarter acres of property, which he found in his pocket the next day. He looked the document over as well as a man can who has met three different friends with apple brandy the day before, and not being sure whether he was reading aright, he called in his daughter. She figured out that her father had bought the three and three-quarter acres of land, a mile from Wilson, giving therefor notes for $2,800; that the property was all set out with trees of three years' growth; streets had been laid out, sewers dug and, in fact, that the place was a city, laid out and awaiting only the touch of a magic hand to become a rival of Wilson.

"The magnitude of the proposition somewhat overcame Mr. Tomlinson. He has plenty of money but he didn't exactly want the city. Still, he went out and looked it over. It looked pretty good. There were 200 trees getting ready to arch themselves over the four or five streets. They looked like real live trees—but they weren't.

"There's where the rub came. The trees died. They not only died, but they fell over. And then Mr. Tomlinson found that they were without roots; that they were trees only from the ground up. They had been cut somewhere off in the woods, sharpened on the end like a picket and driven into the ground. So, of course, they died. It is something new in this part of the country and suggested to the people in the court room that possibly Broadway and 42nd street might learn something after all, from Wilson, North Carolina.

"Mr. Tomlinson put the finishing touches to the story in court.

"'I really wouldn't have cared so awful much about the whole thing,' he said, 'but I watered those trees all summer long'."

BABIES GET MEDALS.

Mothers Receive Score Cards and Certificates.

Raleigh, Nov. 20. — The gold and bronze medals for the prize winning babies of the Better Babies Contest, held at the State Fair recently, have just been returned from New York city where they were sent to be engraved with the winner's name, and are today beoing sent out to the babies. The gold itself in the gold medal is valued at twenty-five dollars and is about the size of a twenty-dollar gold piece. This medal goes to Joseph Samuel Womble, Jr., of Carthage, age 36 months. Joseph scored 100 per cent. and has also the honor of having won a similar prize last year. As 36 months is the age limit, this is the last year he will be eligible to compete in such a contest.

The three bronze medals go to Inez Lee Willoughby, of Ahoskie; Edith Outlaw of Middlesex; Henry Clinton Watkins, of Wake Forest, and Milton R. Gibson, Jr., of Raleigh.

The score cards and certificates of all the babies examined in the contest are now being mailed to the mothers. A letter accompanies the score card, explaining the details and manner of scoring.

THEATRICAL

Marie Doro, the enchanting young star, has endowed the screen with a new and charming personality in the presentation of the great Paramount-Lasky feature, "The White Pearl," by Edith Barnard Delano, to be shown at the Royal tomorrow on the Paramount program.

"The White Pearl," is a fascinating combination of romance, drama and mystery, which centers about the love of an American girl and boy, whom destiny transplants to far-off Japan under strange and thrilling circumstances. Miss Doro's wonderful dark eyes about which more has been written than any other American star, are a powerful factor in her delineation of the transformed American girl when she finds herself in the role of a Japanese geisha girl. Her delicate beauty and captivating grace and attractiveness help her succeed in making a picture of exquisite charm and appeal.

Miss Doro is assisted by a notable cast of stars, including Thomas Holding, Walter Craven and Robert Broderick, and is a production which should be seen a number of times with equal interest.

Miss Freckles—Grand Monday.

Tomorrow at the Grand there is to be presented no less a screen favorite than beautiful Ruth Stonehouse, in a great two-reel Essanay comedy drama, "Miss Freckles." The Moving Picture World says: "Ruth Stonehouse comes very near being the whole thing in this two-reel comedy. She impersonates a denizen of Hogan's Alley, and is first seen 'rushing the can' for her dad. Her performance is well-rounded, and delightfully humorous. The comedy reflects credit upon the author, H. Tipton Steck, and offers excellent roles for Frank Dayton and Marion Skinner."

That's a pretty good write-up for a regular release two-reel feature—they seldom get mention. So tomorrow at the Grand all patrons will be sure of something good in this release alone.

Grace Williams, Herbert Prior and Yale Benner present a great single reel Edison drama, "The Broken Word," which deals in a realistic manner with several dramatic phases of life in the Southwest and will prove interesting throughout.

Then there's another great "Ham and Bud" comedy feature, "Rushing the Lunch Counter."

Billie Ritchie—Bijou Monday.

Tomorrow the Bijou presents what it guarantees to its patrons to be the biggest and best Billie Ritchie comedy ever filmed. It comes in three convulsive reels and featured with the peerless "Billie" is Louise Orth, "Pop" Rogers, Alice Howell, and the other big L-Ko nuts that simply make Rome howl.

"Silk Hose and High Pressure" is the title and it contains more laughs to the square inch than you have ever seen unreeled on the screen in all your life. D'jever see a Jap acrobat balancing on the end of a pole that was fastened to the ground by nothin' at all? Well, say, guy, that's nothin'! Absolutely nothin'. Take a slant at the L-Ko bunch doin' the same stunt on the end of a stream of water! I guess that's high pressure for you! And the "Silk Hose"—well, there's a big bunch of the "merry-merry" in this prize laff-getter than supplies that part of the title. Miss it and you'll miss the one big treat of your life.

"Promissory Notes" is a great single reel Victor drama, the first of a series of "stories from real life," and is replete with thrilling incidents.

MARIE DORO.

SOLDIERS OF FRANCE GIVEN GOOD RATIONS

Enjoy Light Breakfast and Two Solid Meals a Day.

Even Close to the Firing Line the Cooks Occasionally Vary the Menu With Special Dishes—Sanitary Care is Taken.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.)

Paris, NUov. 10.—As far as food goes, the French soldier lives well, if the ordinary programme of the French common people is taken as a standard. His menu is based on two solid meals a day with a breakfast of bread and coffee. There is nothing the French soldier appreciates so much as his morning coffee. It is brought to him in canvas buckets, sugared but without milk, and like all French coffee it is excellent. If the weather is bad there is usually a sip of rum from the company rations to go with the coffee and bread.

For dinner and supper the two great staple dishes are rag-out and pot-au-feu. The rag-out is made of stewed meat, preferably mutton, highly seasoned. The pot-au-feu is boiled beef and soup. The stew is generally thickened with dried beans or rice, but the pot-au-feu receives as many varieties of vegetables as ingenious foraging can muster, with always a plentiful basis of potatoes.

Occasionally the French cooks even close to the firing line vary the menu with special dishes such as steaks, brains, hearts and the like, which they carry out to the men in the trenches. It is a current remark in France that the cook is the bravest man in the regiment, and this is generally a tribute to the danger that he sometimes has to undergo to carry his dainties to the appreciative Poilus who await his coming at the very apex of the battle line.

The meat in its raw state is brought up on the hoof to a point as near the lines as is conveniently safe, and there slaughtered. Typical French economy is shown in this operation, for use is made of every possible fragment of the carcass. The hide, bones, and uneatable portions are carefully collected and sent back to the base to be otherwise turned to advantage. The cook of each mess sends his assistant each morning for the squad's share of the butcher's stores, and the assistant receives promptly a great piece of mutton corresponding to the number of men to be fed.

The operation of carving the meat is generally a matter of great interest to soldiers who happen to be off duty. They gather in the vicinity of the cook's tent or hut and admire or criticize the skill with which he undertakes the operation. Although some of the best cuts are often used in the pot, there is an opportunity for the exercise of considerable skill in trimming off an occasional supply of steaks or chops for treatment in some other manner.

The meat dishes by no means complete the soldier's dinner. There is the bread—and French bread is proverbially excellent. It is baked in loaves like a small millstone, and before being served the crust is carefully cut away, because in transportation and handling a certain amount of dirt is bound to gather there. The interior is rather more solid than that of the French bread served in American restaurants or in Paris.

Each man is allowed a half-pint of red wine with each meal, and the individual may provide himself with such luxuries as salad, cheese or fruit. Salad may often be obtained locally, and not infrequently the men have their own little beds of their favorite green, grown in some favorable spot close to their position.

CROUP AND COLDS TREATED BY GOWANS

Severe cases of croup have been known to yield to an external treatment known as Gowans, in 15 minutes, and it is said that one application on the chest and throat at night before going to bed rarely fails to break up the worse attack. It seems unfair to the little ones to let them suffer when such easy, quick relief is within reach of all. Then again, when croup and colds are neglected, serious results follow. Gowans is absolutely safe to use, even on the most delicate children, as it is applied externally to the chest and other affected parts, and when covered over with a warm flannel cloth, it goes straight to the spot and breaks up the inflamation and congestion. Here is one of many thousands of testimonials: Prof. R. A. Peters, Atchison, Kans., writes: "I cannot endorse Gowans Preparation too highly. Have used it for croup on my little boy and have always found it effective and immediately so." Ask your druggist for a bottle. "Demand Gowans, because Gowans is more penetrating." 25c, 50c and $1.00 bottles. Sample and testimonials on request of the Gowan Medical Co., Concord, N. C.

J. F. Littleton, 610 S. Sixth St., Wilmington, says: "I had a dull ache across the small of my back, and often I couldn't rest as the pain was so severe. I could hardly rest as the pain was so severe. I could hardly get down to pick up anything, and when I did, I could scarcely get up again. I couldn't control the kidney secretions and had a constant desire to pass them. Day and night this trouble bothered me, and it was wearing on my whole system. Merchant Marine Auxiliary Plan Of Secretary McAdoo

By J. C. Hemphill.

Secretary McAdoo does not believe in subsidies for ships. He would not take millions of dollars out of the public treasury annually for "favored corporations, firms and individuals who operate ships." He would rather spend millions "in building up a splendid naval auxiliary merchant marine which can be controlled and operated in the interest of all the people."

He would have the government build ships that could be used in time of war. He would have these ships to the aggregate tonnage of 500,000 tons built in American shipyards and after construction he would "operate them under some intelligent plan for the protection and expansion of our foreign commerce." He would create a shipping board consisting of the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of Commerce, ex-officio, and three members to be selected by the President and confirmed by the Senate, and he would delegate to the board the organization of a corporation or corporations and authority to subscribe to the capital stock in whole or in part of such corporation or corporations in the name of the government. He would give the board authority to vote the stock belonging to the United States in the election of directors of the corporations. He would establish steamship lines with the auxiliary fleet for the development of American commerce and have the lines so operated as to provide adequate shipping facilities to all foreign ports according to "seasonal demands," to the great advantage of shippers and business men who would thus be saved from yielding extortionate tribute to foreign steamship lines which have been bleeding the business of this country to the extent of $300,000,000 the year for the transportation of its goods and products to foreign markets.

Mr. McAdoo would give the shipping board authority not only to lease the auxiliary ships to corporations but he would give it authority also to operate these ships in commerce whenever suitable lessees could not be found. This would be done not with the object of crushing private American lines engaged in the overseas traffic but of meeting foreign competition and particularly for the extension of American commerce in American bottoms. The necessity of building up American shipping is generally conceded and the opportunity for the development of our commerce with the South American countries was never so inviting as it is now.

Private capital will not undertake the work. Last March Senator Weeks, of Massachusetts, submitted a resolution to the Senate whereasing that "Private capital has not engaged in this service to a sufficient extent to furnish facilities comparable to those enjoyed by the people of other countries having trade relations with South America," and authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to "prepare a plan for the operation of some of the navy cruisers between New York and New Orleans" and South American points. The navy cruisers, however, were built for fighting and not for commercial purposes and it was found that the ships Senator Weeks would employ in this service would "carry only 17 to 20 passengers, the United States mails and about 150 tons of express freight"—about three carloads of ordinary freight—which, as the Secretary of the Navy reported, "would be a very expensive service."

"As far as I know," Senator Weeks said, "There are no American steamers prepared to undertake this service." Senator Gallinger said in a speech on the subject in the Senate: "We are without a line from either the Gulf, the Pacific or the Atlantic Coast of the United States to South America," and it is proposed by the subsidy people that this condition shall be remedied by levying annual tribute upon the public treasury to the extent of millions of dollars; the public treasury to "pay the freight" and the private owners of the lines to take the profits. Mr. McAdoo does not think that this would be good business or good morals.

Mr. McAdoo's position is that "the most indispensable factor in any sensible plan of National defense is a powerful navy, capable of striking with effect—both offensively and defensively—supplied with essential naval auxiliaries in the form of an American merchant marine." Such an auxiliary is "a fleet of merchant vessels so constructed that they may render essential service and assistance to our battleships and cruisers in time of war and serve the needs of commerce in time of peace." A battleship fleet without a merchant marine auxiliary must be ineffective. Fighting ships cannot carry sufficient supplies for long service at sea and there must be ample supply vessels that can be employed in this service immediately upon occasions.

Furthermore, trained American seamen, the Secretary points out, must be available to fight our battleships and operate the auxiliaries in time of war—seamen imbued with our National spirit and knowing no allegiance except to the United States. A naval auxiliary merchant marine would give us American seamen to assist our navy in time of war.

When the war with Spain began in 1898 the United States was utterly unprepared with supply ships and transports and was compelled to buy almost any sort of boat that could be hastily adapted to the necessities of the navy and for such vessels it had to pay enormous prices. "The navy alone bought at that time 102 vessels as naval auxiliaries and paid, in round numbers, the fabulous sum of $18,000,000 for them. There is no officer of the navy who knows about these perchases who won't admit most of the vessels were junk." One of the ships, which cost the government $87,597, was actually sold to a Chicago junk company for $3,300, and seven of these emergency craft were sold by the government after the war was over at a loss of $1,736,922, or 50 per cent of the amount originally invested in them In addition to the money expended in the purchase of such ships the government was compelled to spend other millions for transport service.

In answer to Mr. McAdoo's question last June: "Considering our navy as it is today, and having reference to its maximum usefulness and efficiency in time of war, what number of merchant vessels and what total tonnage would be required?" Admiral Benson, Acting Secretary of the Navy, said: "There would be required 400 merchant vessels for auxiliaries with a total of 1,172,000 gross tonnage. In addition to the above, should our coast be invested, or even occasionally visited, there would be required a large number of small vessels fitted for mine sweeping, say at least 324 of such vessels, of about 150 gross tons each."

In the opinion of the Navy Department it would be possible to draw from our present merchant marine approximately 700,000 gross tonnage of vessels that could be converted into naval auxiliaries, which would leave a deficiency of about 500,000 gross tonnage to meet the needs of the navy, and it is for the building of suitable auxiliaries aggregating 500,000 tonnage Mr. McAdoo would have Congress provide. In his opinion and the opinion of all who have studied the subject and who know the weakness of the navy in this respect, private capital cannot be depended upon to supply this vital need.

The auxiliaries having been built, Mr. McAdoo would employ them as commerce carriers in time of peace by corporations organized for the purpose under government regulation and on terms which would make them not only profitable to the corporations actively engaged in their management but to the government as well, or at least without substantial loss to the government. Objection has been made that this would be putting the government into the shipping business in competition with private corporations or firms and that it is an adventure in state socialism which would be attended by grave danger to the public and contrary to all the accepted principles upon which this government was founded. But there are no private American corporations and firms engaged in the sea-carrying trade between the United States and South America in which Mr. McAdoo would employ these naval auxiliaries. "There are no American steamers prepared to undertake this service," Senator Weeks said at the last session of Congress. "We are without a line from either the Gulf, the Pacific, or the Atlantic Coast of the United States to South America," said Senator Gallinger, who said further: "In the event of a war between a great foreign nation and our nation we would have no adequate auxiliary ships to supplement our battleship fleet."

So in Mr. McAdoo's opinion the plan he proposes would meet both military and commercial necessity. The trade of South America if fully developed would amount annually to more than a billion dollars—last year the total exports from the United States to the South American markets amounted in value to only $166,598,949, and in the conduct of this trade the shippers and business men of the United States were subject to outrageous exactions by the foreign ship-owners who made the rates.

Since the war in Europe began, because of the lack of American ships, ocean freight rates have been enormously increased—on grain from New York to Liverpool from 4 cents the bushel to 40 cents; on cotton from Galveston to Europe from $2.50 the bale to $15, and in one case cited by Mr. McAdoo the increase has been as much as 1,600 per cent.

There are no American ships to carry American cargoes and the plea is that if Congress would vote millions for subsidies private capital would supply the ships. "Wouldn't it be more sensible," asks Mr. McAdoo, "for the government to spend these millions in building up a splendid naval auxiliary merchant marine which can be controlled and operated in the interest of all the people?" Then he serves this notice: "Every shipowner and every ship monopolist wants subsidies. They would profit by them, and they are going to make a desperate fight for them in the next Congress. But they can't succeed, because no Democratic Congress will pass a ship subsidy bill and no Democratic President will approve one."

Mr. McAdoo is not deterred from his purpose by the outcry against the creation of a merchant marine auxiliary by the government because it would put the government in the shipping business and would be, therefore, downright socialism. "I have come to the conclusion," says the Secretary, "that the infallible test of the value of any measure to the masses of the people of this country is its denunciation as socialistic by some special or selfish interest." The Federal Reserve Act, before it became a law, the Secretary points out, was opposed by bankers and politicians throughout the country, because they said it put the government in the banking business; that it is socialistic. The American Bankers' Association, at its annual meeting in Boston in October, 1913, about two months before the bill was passed, formally denounced it by resolution as socialistic. "Today," says the Secretary, "there is no intelligent banker, business man or citizen of this country, who understands the system and its workings, who does not thank God for the great law which created that system, whether it puts the government into the banking business or not." The new system has been successfully established and our credit system and resources have been so consolidated and organized that today "we are the strongest nation financially upon the face of the earth."

"Since the beginning of the republic, Federalists, Democrats, Republicans, Whigs and Progressives have voted for and sustained the principle that the United States may subscribe to the stock of quasi-public corporations," and this has been done without thought or concern for the profits to the government in the enterprises it has so encouraged. The Secretary contends that the shipping plan would simply be going back to "first principles" recognized by the first American Congress which authorized the government "to subscribe to stock in a private corporation when its business is impressed with a public service." In 1791 the Congress authorized the government to subscribe 20 per cent. of the capital stock of the first national bank and George Washington approved the measure. In 1816 when the second national bank was established the Congress authorized the United States to subscribe to 20 per cent of its stock, and President Madison approved the policy. All the stock in the Panama Railroad Company, which also operates a steamship line between New York and Panama, is owned by the government, and this railroad and steamship line are operated by a private corporation under the supervision of the War Department, "and the ships have always been operated at a profit."

There is a public health service and the revenue cutter and life saving services which are maintained by the government at an annual expenditure of about $6,000,000 for the saving of human lives and private property and without a moment's thought of what the government could make out of it.

There is the postal savings bank system, approved by both of the great political parties and operated by the government in competition with the private savings banks of the country, and justified of all men because the system is of immediate benefit to the people for whom the government stands.

Then there is the parcels post system championed by the Republicans so many of whom protest against the participation of the government in the shipping business because it would militate against private interests and "has put the United States in the express business and almost destroyed all of the private express companies in the country"; and this has been done with the approval of all parties and to the great advantage of the people.

Mr. McAdoo does not regard his effort to provide a merchant marine auxiliary as in any sense a political or partisan question and would lift it out of the ruck of party strife. Recognizing fully both the military and commercial necessities of the country, necessities which have not been and cannot be provided by private capital, he would have Congress authorize and direct the building of ships which in time of peace would give the country the means of reaching the markets of the world, and especially the markets of South America, with its products, and in time of war would supply adequate and certain facilities for the navy in its defense of the United States from attack and invasion by any foreign foe.

Saturday, 7:30 P. M.—Anniversary of Board of Missions.

Wilmington No Stranger.

The Raleigh Christian Advocate, the official organ of the conference, of which Rev. L. S. Massey is editor, in its last week's issue, has the following with reference to the meeting of the conference here this week:

"Wilmington is not a stranger to the North Carolina conference, nor is the North Carolina conference a stranger to Wilmington. We do not know when the first Methodist conference may have been held here, but the first session of the North Carolina conference to be held there was in 1855. Rev. J. O. Andrew was the presiding Bishop. Those who are familiar with Methodist history know the storms that beat about that name at the General Conference of 1844. That was the sixth time that he had been to the North Carolina conference. At that time our conference had a white membership of 23,461 and a colored membership of 10,187. The latter have decreased to the vanishing point, but the former have increased somewhat. At that time we only had one North Carolina conference, but it did not embrace all the territory of the state. A part beyond the crest of the mountains was in the Holston conference, a part beyond the Chowan river was in the Virginia conference, and some of our southern border was in the South Carolina conference. So it is hard to compare figures accurately. The session of the conference that will convene in Wilmington December 1, 1915, will be the seventh session of the annual conference to be held there, and we will go representing a Methodist host of from 85,000 to 90,000, while we will come from perhaps one half the territory covered by the Conference of 1855.

"Bishop Kilgo, who will preside at the approaching session, is too well known to our readers to need any introduction. He has labored within the bounds of this conference from the foot hills to the sea coast. For sixteen years he toiled untiringly with us. No man has endured more for North Carolina Methodism than he. No man is better loved among us. He will have more or less of personal knowledge with all, or nearly all, the preachers to whom it will be necessary for him to assign places of labor for another year. He is familiar with the field to be covered. Born on the first year of the War between the States, and in South Carolina, at that, it is not surprising that he has fighting blood in his veins; but we believe that he has never fought a battle that his convictions of truth and right did not demand; and, if he was ever vanquished on any field, we have never heard of it. We bid him hearty welcome to our Conference at Wilmington.

"Rev. J. D. Bundy, the host of the conference, and Rev. L. E. Thompson, the Presiding Elder of that district, are both old hands at the business. They will know how to handle the details of entertaining a great body like ours with skill and dispatch. Everything looks to a pleasant session, and we trust that it will be greatly profitable to Methodism and the kingdom of God in our midst. Let the prayers of the whole church be directed to this end."

COTTON CONTINUES STRONG

Trade Was Unusually Large for Saturday, With Prices Registering Several Points Higher.

New York, Nov. 27.—Evidences of a continued and very strong undertone were visible in the cotton market today. Trade was on an unusually big scale for a Saturday, and commission houses reported an increasing interest, particularly in the West and South. The market opened firm at an advance of 22 to 25 points, January selling at 12.44 and March at 12.74. Part of this upturn was due to a sensational advance of 19 to 23 1-2 points at Liverpool where covering on reduced crop estimates, and increasing Manchester business, the advance in silver and absence of hedge selling, had greatly stimulated bull sentiment. Liverpool was also a buyer here and there was active covering of shorts, advancing January in the first hour to 12.50 and March to 12.79. May sold up to 13 cents and July to 13.06 on this upturn. There was widespread opinion, however, that the advance of about $4 per bale in two days had been too rapid, and buyers seized the opportunity to take down profits and this weakened the active positions about 15 points from the top, with January selling off to 12.35, March to 12.65 and May to 12.83.

The reaction was of short duration, however, as there appeared to be many resting orders in the market and a second heavy buying movement near the close restored most of the set-back, the final tone being very steady with prices 10 to 27 points net higher, January closed at 12.45, March 12.74 and May 12.94.

Spot news continued bullish particularly with reference to exporting demand, and the disposition to reduce crop estimates also had its effect. Western wholesale dry goods houses reached the best business in months and Fall River print cloth sales for the week were 160,000 pieces against 90,000 last year. Curtailment was 110,000 pieces compared with 200,000 a year ago.

Futures closed very steady:

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

Market Strong and Active, With Spot Quotation at 11.94.

New Orleans, Nov. 27.—Cotton was strong and active in the early trading today prices being at the advance until pressure from week-end realizing was felt. In the first half hour active months moved up 29 to 36 points, but profit-taking sales gradually brought about a reaction. From the higher there was a fall of 11 to 19 points. The close was steady at a net gain of 19 to 20 points. The advance was chiefly based on the spectacular and unexpected rise in Liverpool which stood nearly $1.50 a bale higher than due on its close. The higher prices for silver and better accounts from the spot market was bullish features. Shorts covered at the advance and little fresh short selling appeared although bearish comment was to the effect that the advance of the last three days had been too rapid. Closed steady. Closing bids: December 12.18; January 12.35; March 12.64; May 12.84; July 12.94. Spot cotton firm, 25 points up. Sales on the spot 300, to arrive 2,925; middling 11.94.

STOCKS WERE VERY INACTIVE

Metals Contributed Large Portion of the Light Dealings—Few Specialties Made New Records.

New York, Nov. 27.—Today's brief session of the stock market represented little more than the caprices of the professional element. Dealings amounted to only 231,000 shares, of which metals contributed an unusually large proportion. New Haven and American Tobacco were weak and a few specialties were lifted to new records. These included General Motors up six points to 455; Cuban-American Sugar 7 7-8 to 158 7-8, and Allis Chalmers preferred, 3 1-2 to 81 1-2. There were tentative gains of 1 to 3 points in the usual variety of war and semi-war descriptions, these being offset by irregularity in coppers and petroleums, as well as mercantile marine preferred. General Chemical lost ten at 423 1-2. Investment shares were dull with few changes of note. In the final dealings the sagging tendency became more pronounced, creating a moderately heavy undertone.

New Haven's decline of 1 3-8 to 72 5-8 was ascribed in a measure to bear pressure. Tobacco's decline of 12 points to 216 was with explanation other than rumors of "inside" selling.

Trading in United States Steel was comparatively light, the stock recording a small fractional loss. American Can seemed to yield under profit taking as American Smelting. Americans manifested a better tone in London, that center reporting greater optimism in consequence of the success of the French loan. Sterling and checks were higher, but marks were heavy, demand on bourse falling to 80 3-8, which approximated the lowest quotation since the war. Banks report an increased business activity. Bonds were firm with small trading. Total sales, par value, amounted to $2,728,000. United States registered 2s advanced 1-4 per cent and the registered 4s declined 1-8 per cent on call during the week.

WEEKLY DRY GOODS.

Market Ruling from Steady to Firm. Movement Heavy.

New York, Nov. 27.—Cotton goods are ruling steady to firm and the movement on past orders continues very heavy. Some of the important lines to domets offered to the manufacturing trades for fall delivery at advances ranging from one cent to 1 1-2 cents a yard over last year have been sold up and withdrawn. Wide sheetings continue very firm and sold ahead. Print cloths, brown sheetings, and staple convertibles are firmer than they were a week ago and from the low point have reached 1-4c a yard. Colored domestics are generally well sold ahead. Production in many colored domestics are generally well sold ahead. Production in many colored lines is being restricted because of dye stuffs scarcity and there is a tendency toward bidding premiums for goods which colors are guaranteed fast. It is difficult to get some lines of fine and fancy yarn dyed novelties for the spring season, as initial orders will not be duplicated at old prices, and in many instances owing to color scarcity, they cannot be duplicated at all. Duck mills continue very busy, printers and finishers are running as full as color conditions will warrant, and mills generally are very well employed. Knit goods are being bought liberally for fall 1916 delivery.

Prices on cotton goods are quoted as follows: Print cloths, 28 inch 64x64s, 3 5-8c nominal; 64x60s, 3 1-2c; 38 1-2 inch 64x64s, 4 5-8c; brown sheetings, Southern standards, 7 1-2c; denims, 9 ounce, 14 1-2c; tickings, 12 1-2c prints 5 1-2c; staple ginghams, 6 3-4c; dress ginghams 8 1-2c nominal.

RED CROSS SEALS

Your Opportunity to Bring Christmas to Those Who Need Cheer.

The Red Cross Seals have all the significance of the Regular Christmas stickers, but that does not begin to tell their story. In addition to a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year greeting, the Red Cross Seals typify as nothing else of their kind does the real Christmas spirit of love and sympathy and service for a brotherhood of suffering humanity. They carry a message of helpful interest to forlorn hearts which cannot be directly reached, however much we may be willing. They give expression to the best impulse that comes from the heart of man—that of helpfulness to the unfortunate victims of poverty, misery and distress. They represent a real and potent effort to translate this spirit of helpfulness into efficient service toward alleviating the sorrow and suffering which follow in the train of the Great White Plague. They give joy alike to the heart of the sender and to the recipient and help to save the life and happiness of some less fortunate brother beyond the personal reach of either who has already or may become the victim of tuberculosis. And tuberculosis is so largely a community sin.

Placed on correspondence, Christmas gifts, pay envelopes, they carry at once a gladsome message, a cherished hope and a sympathy that cannot be misunderstood.

SIX BODIES FOUND IN A FARM HOUSE

Farm Hand Believed to Have Shot Five to Death.

THEN KILLED HIMSELF

Murder of Farmer and His Family and an Employe Discovered Last Night Thought to Have Been Committed Tuesday Night.

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 27.—Six persons were found shot to death in a farm house on a country road three miles south of here tonight. Five of them had been murdered, while the sixth apparently committed suicide after shooting the others. A farmer and his family were killed while two farm hands, apparently foreigners, also were shot to death. One of the employes, according to the authorities, did the shooting while the others were asleep last Tuesday night, and then killed himself.

The dead are Samuel Wertzman, 50 years old; Sara Wertzman, his wife; David Kigner, 26 years old, son-in-law; Mrs. Beatrice Kigner, 24 years old, his wife, and two farm hands, apparently Polish, names unknown.

That the murders were not disclosed until tonight was due to the remoteness of the Wertzmann farm house, which is located on a line cross road, a quarter of a mile back from the Cranberry turnpike. Wertzmann, a prosperous farmer, had been accustomed to deliver milk daily in New Brunswick. None having been delivered since Tuesday, an investigation resulted in the discovery of the tragedy.

The bodies were found in three rooms. One of the farm hands had died while he was evidently kneeling in prayer on his bed. On another bed was the body of the farm hand who, the investigators believe, did all the shooting. In his right hand was a revolver. This man had been employed by Wertzmann only one month and the motive for the murders and suicide is unknown to the authorities.

SICK MAMMA HELPED CAUSE

Little Boy's Consumptive Mother Inspired Red Cross Sale.

The little boy said that he wanted ten cents' worth of Red Cross Christmas seals. The rich woman was buying 50 cents' worth and the lad seemed impatient.

"Just a minute," counseled the clerk in charge.

"But I must get back to my mamma. She's sick, but she wants the seals just the same," announced the lad with a show of spirit.

The rich woman turned to look at him. He was a sweet faced youngster, with sparkling eyes, who seemed not to mind tha this suit was not as warm as it might be.

"You say your mamma is ill?" she asked.

"Yes," he said in a tone that indicated an acquaintance with suffering beyond years. "She's got consumption, but she said she was going to take a whack at it by buying the seals. How can she take a whack at it with the seals?"

"You had better give me more seals instead of change for this five dollar bill," she said to the clerk. Then to the lad she remarked:

"You tell your mamma that she has taken a bigger whack at tuberculosis than she thought."

There is no need to point the moral. The seals are on sale everywhere.

WORK DAY AND NIGHT TO COUNTERACT KRUPP

Visit to British Munitions Plants at Sheffield.

Great Shops Being Pushed to Full Capacity to Make Up Time Lost in Equipping British Army to "kill Germans."

Sheffield, Nov. 27.—An Associated Press representative has today walked ten miles through the plants of Hadfield and Vickers on a tour arranged by the minister of munitions. Sheffield is perhaps as much as any one place the British answer to the Krupp challenge. Sir Robert Hadfield, who conducted the party through his large shops, explained that Herr Krupp von Bohlen was his guest five weeks before war was declared. Now the Hadfield plant is working day and night to counteract the Krupp influences.

While engineers and metallurgists would find countless details to interest them in such a visit, the newspaper man merely grasps some notion of the intensity of output, the ceaseless pace, the driving power of this enormous establishment, all running with one aim. It is as if every blow of the machines, every turn of the shafts chimed in the chorus: "Our aim is to kill Germans."

At the Hadfield plant the Associated Press man was permitted to repeat the experiment conducted on the occasion of the king's visit five weeks ago, the discharge of 10cm shell at a 4-inch plate, at an angle of 50 degrees, like the side of a ship. The king's shot pierced the armor; the correspondent's did not. One of each allotment of shells is thus tested. And there are acres and acres of shells completed and awaiting shipment. And new factories are in process of erection.

Here at the Hadfield plant, the home of manganese steel and other noteworthy inventions, all the ingenuity and capacity are harnessed to the munition work and at the celebrated Vickers establishment it is nearly the same story.

Mr. Douglas Vickers conducted the party through the latter plant, long famous for its part in the admiralty work. Everything is done here from receiving the pig to turning out the 15-inch guns like those of the Queen Elizabeth. You can devote hours to a tour through all the shops, viewing all the processes, or you can sit in the neat little theatre provided adjoining the general offices and see on the cinematograph screen every process pictured.

In these sheffield shops the manufacture of munitions is not a new thing, as in many of the new munition plants, and you can find many a wise-acre to remind you that there would have been no shortage of shells if Sheffield's device had been taken. But the complaints are over now and everybody is driving, driving, rushing, rushing at full energy to make up for lost time.

It is not all impersonal either. For example, one engineer confided in the correspondent that he was particularly interested in studying the effect of the German shell fire on the Tiger. He had worked on her armor and they let him go to see the result. "It was good armor; 'some' armor as you say in the States," was his proud description of the result.

Ruskin's observation about Sheffield, that it was a wretched picture, but in a lovely frame, did not hold good today; it was as clear and bracing amid the workshops as out on the surrounding moors. In no other of the munition areas is there more activity. Shops are measured by acres, employes estimated by thousands and output by millions. Essen is answered by Sheffield, Krupp by Hadfield and Vickers! The munition aspect of the war takes on its grimmest aspect here.
